Here Where History Broods

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 14—Here where history broods and great deeds light the skies of it and dark ones make somber its edges, there is always this feeling of the presence of men and events. Once Andrew Jackson rode a horse down the muddy road now known as Pennsylvania Avenue to his inauguration. Here Lincoln walked alone at night, lonely and sad, carrying great burdens on his heart and mind. Here a frustrated weakling named Buchanan let the issues swirl into civil war, unable to give them direction or leadership. Here was Woodrow Wilson's Gethsemane and the agony and the sordidness of his betrayal.

Rulers

In the old days men were ruled by kings and emperors who led uneducated and ignorant people to believe that they, the rulers, sat on their thrones by divine right. Clerics of various kinds supported this nonsense because they, too, were made comfortable. Finally, men saw that God had never had anything to do with setting up thrones and the idea began to die.

It is, in a sense, a very disturbing fact—but we are governed by mortal men—and always will be. None has any pipeline to God or to the great storeroom where the true answers are kept. None is a superman. Some are more able than others. But, being mortal ourselves, we don't like it when they are more able. We complain that they are strong men who are about to destroy our way of life and who wish to regiment us. Franklin D. Roosevelt, whatever one may think about his deeds, was an able and a strong man. There are some, even, who are beginning to think he wasn't as bad as they thought. Still, there were those who hated him because of his strength. But, when we get an average man, no more able than others in any of our communities, we don't like that, either. We deplore the lack of leadership, strength and ability and begin to look around for a stronger man. We do not believe at the time we will break their hearts, but we will if they turn out to be really strong and able.

Now and then people delude themselves with the idea they have found a superman. Usually this grows out of great distress, and the superman who is, of course, not really super, but just a good orator and organizer, takes over power. The Germans picked a former house painter and army corporal turned fanatic, and for a while Adolf Hitler gave a very good imitation of a superman.

Italy accepted Benito Mussolini, but at last they took him away from his mistress and killed him. There was a difference in Russia where shrewd, designing men obtained power. They then began to sell the idea of a superman. First it was Lenin. Then Stalin. Today several million Russians regard Stalin not as a mortal, but as a godlike person, possessed of powers not held by mortals. Eventually, of course, Stalin will be proved mortal. It may take a long time, or maybe destiny will become bored with him.

America

Here in America there are those who would be happy to have a superman make decisions and not allow them to question them. But, most Americans accept their country and the meaning of its original revolution even though they never think it out. Our revolution was fought on the basis that our government would be one which existed by the consent of the people. We today regard the Constitution much more reverently than did its chief architect, Thomas Jefferson. He said that it would have to be changed whenever the welfare of the people demanded it. He preached revolutionary methods as being necessary whenever, and if ever, persons came along and tried to act like supermen and take over the government.

So, we have gone along, changing our Constitution by amendments and by interpretations of our Supreme Court until we do have greater reverence for it because it is such a resilient document.

We have a capitalism which has come to be a sort of socialist capitalism even though we don't like socialism. We have, in our own way, put a lot of socialism in our country without realizing it. While other nations have made the error of socializing the means of production, we have, in a very real, if indirect sense, socialized the products themselves until we have more possessions than is perhaps good for us.

Anyhow — we will always be ruled by mortals.

Churchill Pledges British Struggle 'To Pay Own Way'

OTTAWA, Jan. 14—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill declared Monday night that, even though no one can predict what will happen, the West has "the life strength and guiding light" needed to bring a tormented world to safety.

"We have surmounted all the perils and endured all the agonies of the past," he reminded the free world.

"We shall provide against—and thus prevail over—the dangers and problems of the future, withhold no sacrifice, grudge no toil, seek no sordid gain, fear no foe. All will be well."

The 77-year-old British statesman called the 12-nation North Atlantic Pact the "surest guarantee, not only of the prevention of war, but of victory, should our hopes be blasted."

He frankly acknowledged in a prepared address, delivered at a formal dinner given in his honor by the Cahadian government:

"No one can predict with certainty what will happen. All can see for themselves the strange clouds that move and gather on the horizons. But this time, at any rate, we are all united from the beginning."

Churchill said his four-day conference with President Truman last week had convinced him the North Atlantic Treaty is now more than a defense alliance.

It is broadening out, he said, into a North Atlantic community of free nations, "acting together, not only for defense but for the welfare and happiness and progress of all the peoples of the free world."

Speaking directly to Canadians, Churchill confidently predicted "a magnificent future" for the Dominion" if only we can all get through the present hideous world muddle."

The British government, he declared, will "do all in our power" to promote a united Europe with an all-European army, including German units.

Churchill contended he has "long been an advocate" of both these ideas, but, he said:

"That does not mean Great Britain will become a unit in a federated Europe, nor that her army, already in line upon the

Pigeonholing Proposed for Soviet 'A' Plan

By A. M. ROSENTHAL
New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

PARIS, Jan. 14 — The three major Western Powers proposed formally Monday that the Soviets' new atomic control proposals be forwarded for consideration to the United Nations disarmament commission.

France, speaking for the delegations of Paris, London and Washington, introduced the three-power resolution before the assembly's political and security committee. Choosing his words carefully, Jean Chauvel of France told the delegates the proposals made Saturday by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky and labeled by the Russians as concessions, seemed to indicate "considerable rapprochement" between the Soviet and the majority positions on atomic control.

But the French delegate advocated "prudence," and cautioned that agreement on the language did not necessarily mean agree-

Bradley Says Blow Ready If Talks Fold

By HAROLD B. HINTON
New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senate armed services Monday that the only major obstacle to conclusion of a Korean truce by the negotiators at Panmunjom is the question of rehabilitation of North Korean airfields knocked out by continuous United Nations bombardment.

Senator Russell (Dem., Ga.), chairman of the committee, commented afterwards that General Bradley had seemed "slightly more optimistic" about the possibilities of a satisfactory truce than had been Robert A. Lovett, secretary of defense, when he appeared before the senators last week.

On the other hand, General Bradley told the committee that complete military plans have been agreed for use in the event the prolonged parleys end in failure and full-scale fighting should start again.

General Bradley outlined the success of UN negotiators in securing agreement on a cease-fire within 24 hours of the signature of an armistice, on inviting non-combatant nations to supervise the truce; on withdrawal of all forces from the demilitarized zone within 72 hours, and the rotation of personnel on both sides without net augmentation of strength.

"Because peace in Korea might well be a pattern for peace in other trouble spots in the future, it is important to the United Nations that the settlement be on sound principles," the general said.

"By every means at our command, and at every genuine opportunity for honorable terms, we seek peaceful solutions to international differences. But there is one price we will not pay—appeasement."

Shaky Truce Talks Verge On Collapse

New Session On; Tempers Flare

By RUTHERFORD M. POATS

TOKYO, Jan. 15—(UP)—The Korean armistice negotiations resumed Tuesday in Panmunjom, but six months of deadlock and the smouldering anger of the negotiators made it appear that each session might be the last.

A subcommittee studying means of exchanging prisoners of war and one studying means of supervising an armistice met at 11 a. m. Tuesday (9 p. m. EST Monday) after a day of no progress and name calling that threatened to collapse the talks altogether.

The pattern was increasingly like last fall when the Communists broke off the talks on grounds the United Nations had violated the neutrality of the conference site. Once again the Communists were accusing the United Nations of imperiling the negotiations.

ANGER EXPLODES

Talk of disbanding the truce talks broke through the boiled surface layer of diplomatic bargaining in the Panmunjom tents Monday. Smoldering anger burst into the open.

A no-progress day of argument in the two subcommittees dealing with armistice supervision and prisoner exchange saw these developments:

1. The Communists slapped down an Allied proposal for a ban on airfield construction during an armistice and an Allied sales talk on the voluntary repatriation of prisoners.

LIAR PROOF DEMANDED

2. Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho blandly implied that Rear Adm. R. E. Libby was a liar, and the American challenged the Communist to prove it or eat his words.

3. The Reds charged that Allied planes flew over northeast China Sunday in "an additional provocative action."

4. An Allied spokesman served notice in an informal statement that the Allies would not buy an armistice at the price of "our annihilation."

SAME RED LINE

5. A Communist newsman said the "entire outcome of the negotiations is being imperiled by American Gambling" in the conference tents.

6. Lee told Libby that "if you do not want to continue negotiations you will have to take responsibility"—the line the Reds followed before they broke off the talks last August.

19 Miners Die In Nova Scotia As Blast Hits

STELLARTON, Nova Scotia, Jan. 14—(U.P.)—A violent explosion rocked the McGregor coal mine here Monday and mine officials said 19 miners were killed.

Twelve bodies were carried out of the Acadia Coal Company mine after masked rescue workers ignored warnings of a possible second blast to continue search for possible survivors.

Acadia safety officials said 22 men were working in the area where the explosion occurred. Three men crawled to safety.

"That leaves seven to be accounted for," said company rescue Supt. MacKenzie Fleming. "There won't be any more survivors."

Fleming led a 30-man rescue crew, wearing masks, into the fume-filled pit. Anxious relatives of men known to be in the mine gathered at the top of the shaft, some weeping, others kneeling on the snow-covered ground, praying.

The blast occurred at the 1,400-foot level of the mine.

Hill Taken, Lost In Bloody Fight

TOKYO, Jan. 15—(UP)—South Korean troops captured and then lost two strategic hills Monday in the heaviest and bloodiest fighting on the west Korean front in a week.

The fighting raged for hours within sight and sound of the Panmunjom armistic site, on the approaches to "Paik's Peak," a dominating height the Reds captured Dec. 28.

Talmadge Asks Vote Control Over Presidential Electors; Claims Pledges To Scrap Tax

Toll Highway Plan Faces Rough Going

By ALBERT RILEY

Governor Talmadge said Monday night he has pledges of support from more than enough House members to approve a constitutional amendment that would practically abolish the $7,000,000 state property tax.

A two-thirds majority—or 137 votes—is required for House adoption of the amendment which would slash the state ad valorem tax from five mills to one-fourth of one mill. Talmadge said he has pledges of support from 175 representatives,

The governor added he probably would ask Speaker Fred Hand to call up the measure for a vote Tuesday.

Hand, who opposes the amendment, said he will call it up if the governor requests it. But he added he probably will leave the speaker's stand to fight the measure.

Meanwhile, another of the governor's proposals—creation of a turnpike authority to issue revenue certificates and build toll roads in Georgia—got a rough reception Monday at the opening of the 1951 hold-over session of the General Assembly.

House Floor Leader Frank Twitty of Mitchell County, will offer an amendment to the toll-road bill, restricting construction to a highway between Atlanta and the Tennessee line and Talmadge said he would accept the amendment.

If the House approves the property tax reduction, virtually abolishing the state's ad valorem tax and leaving that tax field to cities and counties, the proposal will be submitted to the people in a referendum.

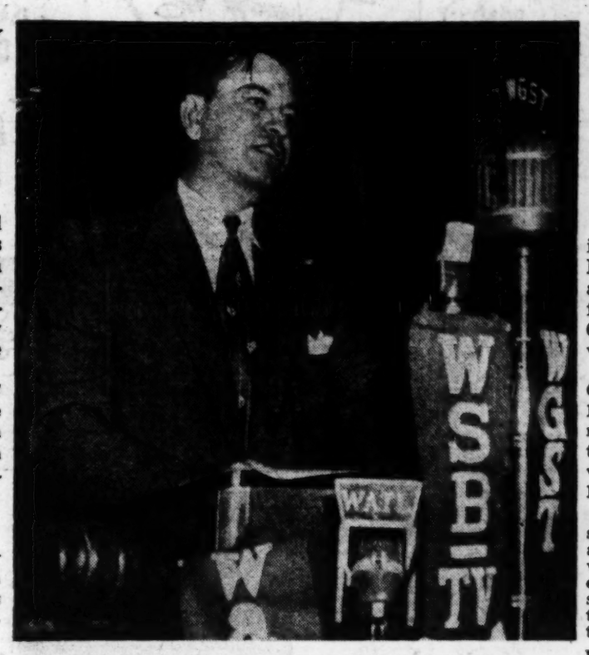

Strongly urging such a course in his "State of the State" address to a joint session of the House and Senate Monday, Talmadge already has announced he will almost eliminate the state property tax by executive order.

But he said he wants the reduction made a part of the constitution so no future governor or legislature could reinstate it.

The House paved the way for a vote shortly before hearing the chief executive's address opening the 1951 hold-over session.

The amendment reducing the property tax was approved by the

Atlanta Area Solons Favor Junking Property Taxes

With one exception, members of the General Assembly from the Greater Atlanta area of Fulton, DeKalb and Cobb counties are solidly behind Governor Talmadge's plan to practically abolish the state property tax by constitutional amendment.

Rep. Fred D. Bentley of Cobb County is the lone dissenter in the delegations from Greater Atlanta.

A poll of the three delegations Monday showed them widely split, however, on the governor's proposal for a Turnpike Authority to build toll roads.

Reps. Luther Alverson and Hoke Smith of Fulton and Hugh McWhorter of DeKalb came out with unreserved support for the Talmade plan. Rep. Muggsy Smith of Fulton and Sen. Harold Willingham of Marietta favor the plan but with some reservations.

Sen. Everett Millican of Atlanta said he is inclined to oppose the toll road bill, while Sen. R. F. Duncan of Lawrenceville, Rep. James Mackay of DeKalb and Rep. Harry E. Williams of Cobb were undecided.

The only outspoken opponents of the measure were Rep. Richard Bell of DeKalb and Rep. Bentley of Cobb.

The three delegations also are split on proposals to reorganize the Georgia Department of Education. McWhorter favors reorganization and so does Alverson, who believes the state school board should be elected by the people. Hoke Smith thinks the governor should continue to appoint the board which in turn should select the state school superintendent.

Millican, Muggsy Smith, Duncan, Bell and Bentley said they are inclined to favor the status quo

School Unit On Building Is Upheld

By BILL DIEHL

Georgia's Supreme Court Monday validated the State School Building Authority and cleared the way for a multimillion dollar school building program.

In another ruling, dealing with labor, the court said the Taft-Hartley Act "does not deprive the state courts of their inherent equitable power" to protect citizens against unlawful acts.

Defendants convicted for contempt of court in connection with violence during a strike against Cedartown Textiles, Inc., contended the National Labor Relations Board has exclusive jurisdiction in such cases.

In upholding the convictions, the court ruled "the inherent police power of states to protect citizens against such unlawful conduct never has been, and we trust never will be, delegated to the federal government."

The school authority is expected to float some $170,000,000 in revenue bonds to equalize Negro and white educational facilities.

Speaker of the House Fred Hand, who will head the authority, said he would begin action on the school equalization plan immediately and added he was "very pleased" with the decision.

Hand said he would introduce a constitutional amendment Tuesday changing the present $5,000,000-a-year school allocation to $10,000,000 annually.

Although the supreme court decision upholding the authority

Move Splits First Session Of Assembly

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Governor Talmadge, seeking to block re-election of President Truman, Monday asked the Georgia legislature for power virtually to cast Georgia's electoral vote for whom he pleases.

He already exercises power over Georgia's vote in the National Democratic Convention, and the new measure would enable him to hold final control of Georgia's vote in the Electoral College, political observers said.

Harmony in the hold-over session was broken on its initial day as opposition leaders howled this was the "worst of the series of election laws Talmadge has sponsored during the past few years to gain dictatorial control and thwart the will of the people."

WILLIAMS FIGHTS BILL

Sen. Osgood Williams of Crawfordville announced he would introduce a measure Tuesday counteracting the Talmadge-sponsored proposal.

Williams' bill would provide that the National Democratic Party designate the names of Democratic presidential electors for the Georgia ballot. It would prevent the Georgia Democratic Party from listing anyone other than the national Democratic nominee as the presidential candidate.

The 1952 presidential dispute moved right into the Georgia legislature, as South Carolina Gov. James Byrnes—who, aided by Virginia Senator Byrd and Governor Talmadge, is leading a Southern revolt against present policies of the National Democratic Party—accepted an invitation to address the Georgia General Assembly Feb. 6.

SETS UP COMMISSION

As titular head of the Georgia Democratic Party, the governor, to all practical purposes, actually controls the designation of delegates to the National Democratic Convention. They ote in convention for the candidate the governor prefers.

Under the new bill introduced by administration Senate leaders, the governor, to all practical pur-

Enough Pledges in Hand To Name Ike, Says Lodge

BOSTON, Jan. 14—(U.P.)—Senator Lodge said Monday night that "if all the pledges we have received in the last week materialize General Eisenhower could be nominated on the first ballot" at the Republican National Convention.

Lodge, national manager of the Eisenhower-for-President campaign, would not identify any of those who had pledged or what states they were from.

He told a press conference that Eisenhower's job as commander of the North Atlantic Treaty forces "could be terminated before the convention." However, if the general does not resign before the convention in July Lodge said he "would resign at once" if nominated.

"He would be accepting the greater job," Lodge said.

In answer to charges that Eisenhower could not oppose President Truman's foreign policy in a presidential campaign, Lodge said the general "has been consistently at variance with what the administration has done."

For example, Lodge said, Eisenhower "violently opposed" concessions to Soviet Russia during World War II and demobilization of America's armed forces immediately after the war.

As Atlantic Pact commander Lodge said Eisenhower had "received only one-fifth of what he asked for" from the United States.

Lodge said he would attend the Republican National Committee meeting at San Francisco this week to speak on Eisenhower's behalf and to line up possible delegates to the national convention at Chicago.

Regarding the Eisenhower campaign in the March 11 New Hampshire presidential primary, Lodge said "Governor Adams is in charge up there and doing everything that needs to be done."

Fancy Words, Lobbyists Stir Breezes at Capitol

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

Last spring's crop of pigeons in the capitol eaves had never seen anything like it.

The quietude they—and some public officials—had come to take for granted beneath the old trees on Capitol Hill was abruptly shattered Monday morning.

Approximately 259 talking, brief-case-toting legislators came in from all corners of the state. Loudspeaker systems blared. Television trucks pulled up and great TV cameras with bright lights and malevolent red eyes went into action.

Fancy phrases and ringing rhetoric filled the breeze. Lobbyists filled the gallery. The basement coffee shop was selling out of coffee . . . fast.

Porters hauled supplies to both chambers—as one explained his wares: "Papers for them to work on, ice to cool 'em off."

Prayers ("for strength and guidance and courage") went up from the chaplains of both Houses. Applause and laughter and debate sounded again.

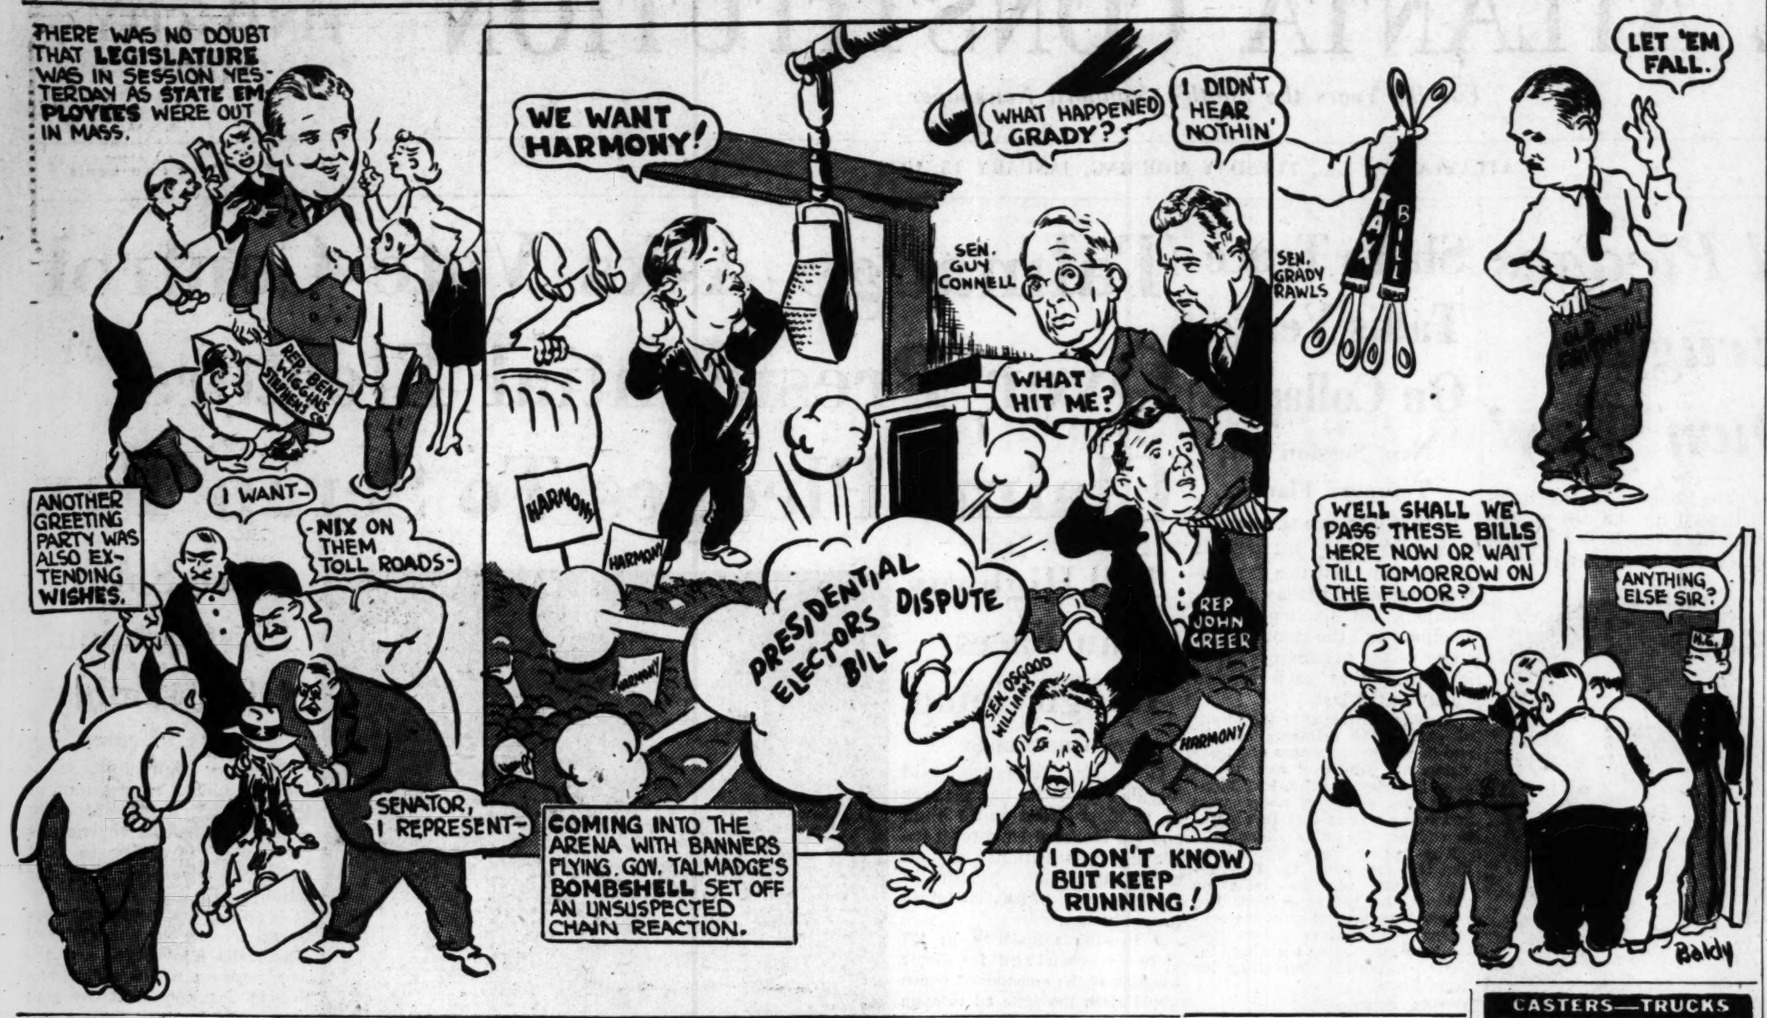

The General Assembly had reconvened.

For most legislators it was a return engagement, expected to be a quiet, uneventful mopping up of business started last February. For at least two it was a beginning and an ending.

Rep. Robert L. Russell Jr., 28, of Winder, was occupying the same political office which started his distinguished grandfather, the late Supreme Court Justice Richard Russell, and his uncle, Sen. Richard Russell, on their careers.

36 Saved as Plane Dives Into E. River

Northeast Liner Undershoots Fog-Bound LaGuardia Field

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—A fog-shrouded airliner, groping by radar for a landing, undershot busy La Guardia Field Monday and crashed in shallow waters of the East River. All 36 aboard were saved.

The radar screen at the airport, used to talk the Northeast Airline plane down, lost the twin-engined image moments before the Boston-New York liner hit the water with a mighty splash.

Had the plane come in from almost any other direction it would have crashed in thickly populated Queens.

Only two of the passengers—including five women—were seriously injured. Surface ships plying the river quickly hove to for rescue operations, which took only about 15 minutes.

All of the 33 passengers and three crew members on the Convair transport were from New England, most of them from Massachusetts. The plane took off from Boston at 7:45 a. m. (EST).

A tug-boat mate, Lee Geitzler, who helped in the rescue, said:

"Everybody stayed calm, particularly the women. Several of the passengers were suffering from face cuts."

The plane came down about 1,000 feet off Rikers Island, midway between Queens and the Bronx and within a short distance of the towering spires of midtown Manhattan. It crashed at 9:10 a. m. The temperature at the time was 42 degrees.

Said another rescue worker, Earl Jensen:

"They were lucky the plane didn't hit a thousand feet farther out where it's deep. The thing would have gone under like a stone."

The silver-and-blue airliner landed in about nine feet of water. The pilot apparently set it down under the impression he was over the runway.

It settled rapidly, until only the tip of the port wing stuck out of the river, which is about half a mile wide at that point.

Raging Storm In California Stalls Traffic

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14—(AP)—A raging storm fronting from Canada to Mexico blasted California and Nevada Monday. Blinding blizzards blocked transcontinental rail and highway traffic in the high Sierra, marooning one train with 120 passengers aboard.

Colorful Reno, the nation's divorce capital, was isolated temporarily. Smaller towns in the vast region on the shoulders of the Sierra Nevada were cut off. Winds up to 100 miles an hour roared across the summits.

It was California's worst winter in more than a half-century.

Rescue teams battled deep drifts in a number of places to reach marooned motorists and residents, but the most dramatic effort concerned the luxurious streamliner City of San Francisco trapped at 7,000 feet near the crest of the Sierra with its 120 passengers aboard. The train was westbound, from Chicago.

Unconfirmed reports from near the scene—150 air miles northeast of San Francisco—said fuel from the crack train's two engines ran out at noon and food was nearly gone.

Two rescue trains, with big rotary snowplows chewing into the drifts, were trying to reach the streamliner from the east and west.

The 120 passengers did not appear in immediate danger.

Cleanup Plan Sent Solons By Truman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(U.P.)—President Truman sent to Congress Monday his sweeping reorganization plan for the scandal-plagued Internal Revenue bureau and predicted it would protect the tax collecting agency from "insidious influence peddlers and favor seekers."

The plan would replace the present 64 tax collectors with some 25 district commissioners. Together, with all other bureau employees except the top commissioner, they would be removed from the field of political patronage and placed under Civil Service.

A semi-independent inspection service would be set up to detect and investigate any irregularities in the bureau.

Mr. Truman said the plan to "prevent improper conduct in public service" would be in complete operation by Dec. 1 if allowed to go into effect by Congress. It becomes effective automatically unless rejected by either the House or Senate within 60 days.

Some members of Congress have opposed the plan on grounds it will do no good to put Internal Revenue employees under Civil Service. They contend the prime need is for more careful screening of federal workers before they are appointed.

A high-ranking Democrat, who asked not to be identified, doubted that it would be approved. He said he had found considerable opposition to it among members of Congress who thought it would "increase federal bureaucracy."

Mr. Truman has said he expected some opposition because Internal Revenue jobs now are choice political plums. Tax collectors generally are appointed on the recommendation of members of Congress subject to Senate confirmation.

Shortly before the President's plan reached Congress, Senator Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.), introduced legislation to retain the present system of 64 tax collectors but put them under Civil Service and bar them from holding outside jobs. Twenty-three other senators, 12 Republicans and 11 Democrats, signed the bills.

Russians Say U. S. Plans 2d Korea in Indochina

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Jan. 14—(AP)—The Soviet press Monday headlined charges that the United States is planning to turn southeast Asia into "another Korea."

"In plain language," said Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, "it (the United States) would begin armed intervention against the democratic Republic of Viet Nam," the Communist-recognized regime in Indochina.

Pravda declared that the meeting of French Gen. Alphonse Juin with American and British Chiefs of Staff in Washington was to work out plans for "new war ventures" in Southeast Asia.

These increasingly strong references in the Soviet press to allegedly aggressive intentions of the Western Powers in that part of the world have captured the attention of foreign diplomats here.

Pravda said "following its customary tactics the Anglo-American press has raised a howl over allegedly 'ripening aggression by the Chinese People's Republic' to camouflage strenuous preparations by the American-British-French bloc for fresh military adventures in Southeast Asia."

NATIONALIST TROOPS

The newspaper repeated charges recently made by Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky in the United Nations that the U. S. Seventh Fleet which guards Formosa was transferring "gangs" of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist soldiers to Thailand, Burma and Indochina, and said the distribution of these soldiers along China's southern borders was in accordance with a previously worked-out plan.

Last week, Moscow papers said these soldiers in northern Burma were under the command of American officers.

Monday, Pravda picked up what it said was a French report that the United States would "repeat the Korean experiment some future time."

The reports also said Washington had asked Paris for closer contact between the French and Chiang Kai-shek in order to use his forces in carrying out Allied strategy in the Far East.

These reports apparently add up to an effort to convince the Russian people the Western Powers are seeking to start trouble with Chinese Communist forces in Southeast Asia.

Polio Vaccine Ready for Use After 6 Years' Research

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—There are three viruses which cause polio, and long search has uncovered no other, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced Monday.

It is the result of the largest research job ever undertaken with March of Dimes money. The study covered three years and was worldwide.

Monday's announcement is a milestone in polio because the trials of a vaccine have been waiting for this study to be completed.

The vaccine has been available for nearly six years. It's testing could not be done satisfactorily so long as the number of different viruses causing polio was unknown. Now the vaccine can be tried. It was developed at Johns Hopkins University, first for monkeys and on them it showed nearly complete protection.

The foundation report names the three types of polio virus, each one able to cause all the known kinds of polio, but each so different that a vaccine for one is no protection against the others. And if you have polio caused by one of these viruses, that will not protect you against getting polio again from one of the others.

The three types of Virus are Arelleon, Lansing and Brunhilde. They were discovered in that order beginning in 1937.

Leon is named after a lad in Los Angeles who died of this type of polio virus. Lansing was named for Lansing, Mich., where the virus was taken from a young man who died of polio, in 1938. Brunhilde is the name of a chimpanzee, which died of virus obtained from seven human polio cases in Baltimore in 1939.

The long search for these cripplers has developed clearly that there are other viruses which resemble polio but are not that dreaded disease. Only one of these imitators fully identified is Coxsackie, named after the New York upstate town where it was discovered.

Truman's Health Group Starts Study

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(AP)—. President Truman's commission on the health needs of the nation met for the first time Monday and promised an open-minded inquiry into ways of improving health service to all the American people.

Dr. Paul Magnuson, chairman of the 13-member body, said in an introductory statement:

"We are not promoting anything. We are trying to find out what needs to be done and how best to do it. The job will be a tremendous one."

The American Medical Association has assailed Mr. Truman for appointing such a commission, calling it a misuse of public funds for propaganda in favor of a government-run health program.

The log-cabin village of New Salem, Ill., where Lincoln once lived, has been restored to the way it looked 120 years ago.

Georgia's Governor Reports Progress

Governor Talmadge's address opening the 1952 session of the holdover General Assembly was a good report of progress. Georgians everywhere join with him in justifiable pride in the state's growth and the progress made toward overcoming the major problems which have plagued us for so long.

The governor's speech was more than a report of progress. It represents a milestone in a quarter century of effort to bring about a change in attitude of Georgians toward their government, a change climaxed with the passage of the sales tax. This tax has made it possible for the state government to meet minimum needs, although all our problems are by no means yet licked.

Gov. Talmadge

Georgians were slow to accept the responsibility of providing the funds necessary to carry on the state's needed functions. They, including the governor, accepted the sales tax finally because it was necessary for Georgia. Almost unanimously the newspapers supported this and other measures to make a better state—for the same reason.

Governor Talmadge deserves credit for the job he has done in administering the expanded services, demanded and finally financed by the people. It seems to us that he has had an extraordinary amount of cooperation, also to his credit, from the Legislature, state employees, newspapers, radio and television, the school people, the farmers. Georgians are working together in harmony to build a better Georgia.

Factional politics has played a lesser role than in many years. Opposition—and it does exist—has gone along with the needed steps to improve Georgia's status in agriculture, health, education and industry.

The governor will continue to have opposition from time to time from those who may, and will, differ with him. He should welcome it. We can promise opposition when it is, in our opinion, justified, and support when it is deserved. On such a foundation real progress is built.

We congratulate the governor and the Legislature on their accomplishments—accomplishments with the consent and help of the people. These accomplishments are not an end, but a beginning of the program which must be continued to place the state back at the top.

The state university needs more money. Prison reforms need extending. The population figures and the estimated grade school enrollment for 1960 point the way to more planning in secondary education. Public health in rural Georgia provides another challenge. The road building program, calling for toll highways where traffic indicates, is a fine one. We urge its passage.

The governor recognized these problems in his report of progress. Georgians will discuss, disagree and debate about the measures necessary to meet them. They must remember that states—even as people—must keep in the stream of life or be washed up on the banks to dry up and die.

Let's argue and disagree, but let's keep doing and progressing.

Congress Must Fight Extravagance, Waste

Leon H. Keyserling, top economic adviser to the President, indicated in a television interview Sunday that Truman's budget message will call for some form of tax increase.

The budget will call for between $80,000,000,000 and $85,000,000,000 in fiscal 1953, with military spending alone amounting to some $65,000,000,000 during the year.

Federal spending will reach its highest peak since 1944-1945 when it hit a $100,000,000,000-a-year rate. As Mr. Keyserling pointed out, $150,000,000,000 would be required to do the 1944 job now.

No one wishes to cut back the rearmament program—even at the risk of continued deficit spending. Rearmament must go on until the nation's defenses are ready for any eventuality. To do otherwise would be to invite disaster.

But we can and we must get value received for these expenditures. Waste, extravagance and unnecessary spending in the defense program must be eliminated, however, in all fairness to the nation's economy and its individual taxpayers.

Cost of the defense program must be held within bounds by an adequate program of controls—wages, prices and profits. And yet Mr. Keyserling says some workers should get wage increases—workers already in the high-pay bracket. A real controls program must be fair to everyone, but to let the lid off in one place invites trouble from all other sources and an ever-growing pyramid of inflation.

We doubt that Congress gives the President added taxes. In fact, the taxpaying ability of the people has been stretched to a dangerous point. Unless nondefense spending is cut to a minimum, unless pork-barrel appropriations are eliminated, unless general waste and extravagance in all branches of the government are curtailed, deficit spending will again add to inflation pressures.

Congress' job at this session is to fight unnecessary government expenditures, inflation and corruption, and to give us an adequate defense program minus extravagance and waste.

A Little Discrimination For the Record

It's started coming again—that pulp publication from Washington, the Congressional Record. And, as usual, most of the bulk is the "extensions" which give some congressmen and their constituents a chance to record their conceit for posterity.

Here's a partial list of "extensions" from the Record, Vol. 98, No. 2:

Mr. Hays of Arkansas and to include in the remarks he made in a newspaper article, radio address delivered on Armistice Day by Judge R. C. Tartar of Somerset, Ky., the text of a speech given by the new Legion commander, speech by the undersecretary of labor at Lancaster, Ohio, article by Bill Cunningham from The Boston Herald, Congressman Norris Poulson's speech before the Los Angeles Lions Club, column by George H. Todt from the Highland Park News-Herald of Los Angeles, column by Robert Ruark on Joe DiMaggio, Congressman Thomas J. Lane's radio speech over Boston station WMEX, championship speech made by Miss Joan H. Wahtola of Stonington, Conn., article on journalism expressing thanks to Everett (Wash.) Elks Lodge for its decision to award a scholarship to a Snohomish County high school boy or girl, numerous editorials.

This list of appendages noted in one issue of the Record is far from complete, but why go on?

Talk is cheap? Not when it is printed in the Congressional Record at the public's expense.

We can see justification for the extension into the CR appendix of some remarks in Congress. But it does seem, in light of the trivialities that go through, that the publication could use a board of editors with liberal power to send out rejection slips.

Well, What Was The Answer?

A California woman was granted a divorce the other day when she testified that her husband took all her paychecks and gave her back an allowance of 20 cents a day.

Why, she said, on one occasion when she asked for her daily allotment, he asked angrily, "What did you do with the 20 cents I gave you yesterday?"

The story ended there, but we call that incomplete reporting. We want to know—what did she do with the 20 cents!

Berrien County Moves Toward School Merger

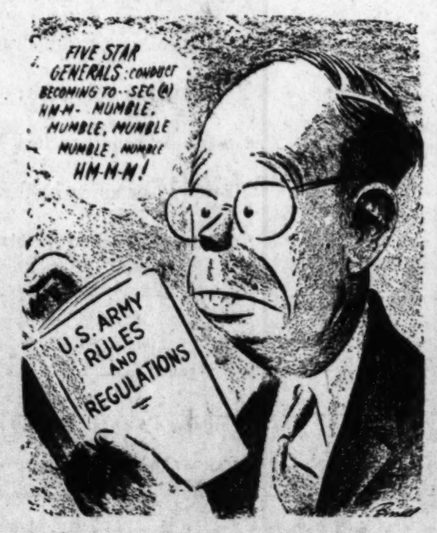

Residents of Berrien County are one step nearer a consolidated county high school with the recent purchase of land as a site for the building.

In reporting the acquisition of the tract, The Nashville Herald says that it culminates a year of work for the county school board and for forward-thinking citizens.

The Berrien paper comments further: "Serving to bind the people of Berrien together with a bond of kinship, the school plant will give a united aspect to this county never seen before, and in scholastic and athletic enterprises it will be Berrien County High, rather than Nashville, or Alapaha or Ray City High.

"A few feelings may have been disturbed by the advent of this project, but we believe the county, by and large, is favorable to it right now. And for the future, 'the proof of the pudding' will be in the results obtained. They should be far reaching."

The Herald expresses the opinion of The Constitution in regard to school consolidation. The results can be far reaching in terms of better education at lower per pupil cost, breaking down provincialism and widening the scope of community co-operation.

Veteran, Heartened by McGill's Report On India, Recalls Poverty and Disease

Decatur—Mr. McGill's articles will be of great encouragement to those veterans of WW-2 who were stationed in India. Ours was an experience of seeing humanity in its worst state of decay; of a country whose people, torn by an antiquated caste system, exploited by others to a maximum; whose very lives and destinies were totally governed by ancient political and religious beliefs to the extent that each day was one of survival from starvation, privation and disease; and whose very appearance was one of simple resignation to what was sure to come, regardless. As one of those who spent a year or more in the midst of such poverty beyond description, it was certainly a good feeling to start the day reading that the Indian people were making such strides toward lifting themselves up to at least a little better standard of existence.

You will readily agree, I'm sure, that one with children of his own cannot easily forget the pitiful "baksheesh, sahib" pleadings of the derelict waifs alongside the train rolling its slow tortuous journey across India's waste lands from Bombay to Calcutta, nor is it easy to forget the haunted faces of those natives we allowed to literally polish our garbage cans of every scrap.

It is easy to see how communism can make its inroads in such situations. Most of us in this country have never known the pangs of real gnawing hunger, of being cold, diseased and with no facilities whatsoever to do anything about it. Even against such tremendous odds, and with little in a material way to offer, our Christian missionaries of all faiths are doing a splendid job there in India.

We can but pray to Almighty God that He will show us the way to aid these people who may very well govern the ultimate destiny of us all.

JACK HAMILTON.

German Consul Sends a Clipping

Atlanta—Being aware of the deep devotion of the people of Atlanta to religion and to church life, I feel that the following news item which I just read in the "Frankfurter Allgemeinen Zeitung" will interest your readers:

BERLIN, Dec. 26, 1951—Christmas services, Evangelic-Lutheran as well as Catholic, were attended by unusually large crowds in the eastern part of Berlin as well as in the entire Eastern Zone of Germany. Bishop Dr. Dibelius, president of the Council of Protestant Churches, in his Christmas message declared that all efforts to replace the Christmas celebration by another kind of festival have been doomed to failure in the past and will never succeed in the future.

I think that this message, coming as it has from the other side of the Iron Curtain, is an encouraging and hopeful one which should not pass unnoticed in this community.

DR. GEORG AHRENS,
German Consul.

Worst Blunder In All History?

London—When Germany invaded Russia, we went to the assistance of Russia, thereby committing the most appalling blunder in modern history. We should have left them to it. Germany would never have conquered Russia, and Russia could never have conquered Germany. They would have canceled each other out to the vast benefit of mankind.

The terrible state of the world today is the direct result of our going to the assistance of Russia.

'Thoroughly Exposed Amendment Joker'

Elberton—Just one of Uncle Sam's millions of nephews of the small-income group, I want to thank you for your timely editorial captioned "Take a Second Look at This Proposal." You thoroughly exposed the "joker" contained in this proposed constitutional amendment to limit federal taxes to 25 per cent of income. I hope every Georgia senator and legislator reads it.

According to a Washington, D. C., newspaper, the real sponsors of this proposed legislation, lurking in the background, have planned to slip it through both Georgia and South Carolina during the coming sessions of their General Assemblies, just as they have succeeded in doing in 22 other states. Two of the states, after discovering the "joker," wanted to rescind their actions.

Democracy, Myth Of Washington

WASHINGTON—There's a great nation, not mythical either but firmly anchored in solid dirt west of the Atlantic Ocean and east of the Pacific Ocean, which is proud of its democratic government and is earnest about extending democracy to the far ends of the earth. But democracy is a myth in its own capital city. There citizens are denied the simple and basic right of democracy, which is the vote—the free ballot about which its statesmen, real and synthetic, talk so much.

They might as well be back under King George III. They have taxation without representation, live under laws and regulations made by those in whose election they have no voice and otherwise fulfill the bill of particulars that their forefathers filed against King George III.

They live in the same town with the chief executive of the nation, the President, and see him in his comings and goings, but have no share in him. They live in the same town with Congress, the legislative body, but have no share in that. They are governed by two committees of Congress, which could much better be looking after the nation's business, and by three so-called district commissioners appointed by their President.

All of this is an old story among us here, for it is here, of course. It is brought up once again because Congress is back in session again, and it is time again to petition Congress to give us democracy here and tear away our own Iron Curtain and pull down the pillars of our local Kremlin.

It is, more than a petition to Congress, a petition to the rest of the people of the nation. For, as Patrick Henry once said, we have petitioned in vain. Congress ignores our petitions. Our only recourse is people elsewhere who have the vote and elect members of Congress and presumably have some influence on them, and maybe more than usual in this election year. We are aware that your congressman, when he is making those noble utterances on July Fourth or other occasions about the free ballot and other blessings of democracy, never tells you that a part of the nation is denied the ballot and the right to govern itself.

Maybe you never knew that, or have forgotten, but it is a fact, and now is the time.

If you think democracy would be all right for us—write and tell him.

It is not, of course, all of Congress that concocts this conspiracy against free government. In the last Congress, as a matter of fact, the Senate unanimously passed a home-rule bill permitting us dummy citizens here to vote and elect officials, and it is the first order of business for the Senate this session. The House refused in the last Congress, and that's where the trouble will come again.

It's not the whole House, either, but a Kremlin installed in the House District of Columbia committee headed by Rep. John J. McMillan (Dem., S. C.), its chairman, which seems to have considerable influence among other members. Mr. McMillan does not believe in democracy for the national capital, nor do some of his fellow committee members. So they just smother the bill.

John Marvin Rast

If you and I are inclined to think that we can drift into a better society, we might profitably read the Old Testament prophets.

There we will meet a philosophy of history which puts at the center God and His righteous requirements.

Arnold Toynbee, modern historian, is in this succession in his declaration that "history never 'happens,' it is brought about by the free decisions of men, as they decide whether to be courageous or cowardly in the face of tomorrow."

By his insistence, too, that love of mankind has been a force in history only when it was a by-product of an intense love of God, there is brought into focus procedure for a civilization fit to survive.

"The simple and inexpensive foods are a welcome relief after the overindulgence of the holidays."—Domestic article quote.

Now that the holidays are past . . . and there is time for rest and quiet . . . there is no better time to fast . . . or, at the least, go on a diet . . . it may be fun to eat and drink . . . but when the holidays are ended . . . the bank accounts begin to shrink . . . but waist-lines are somewhat extended.

It seems, "to eat or not to eat" . . . always presents a potent question . . . but most of us are indiscreet . . . and pay for it with indigestion . . . while others, with their nerves on edge . . . from too much liquid celebration . . . are ready now to sign the pledge . . . and thus avoid intoxication.

Enough of anything's enough . . . so goes the moral of a fable . . . but we forget that when we stuff . . . ourselves with all that's on the table . . . but when the season is complete . . . that always is so nice and pleasant . . . the simple foods are what we eat . . . that's all we can afford at present.

'Why Worry?' Asks A Man of Means

A fellow who has no fears for the economic future, at least not for his own, is the principal in a fresh '52 story from Ed Methvin's Eastman Times-Journal. The anecdote is an antidote for the gloom that may follow filing a federal tax report.

The Methvin column in the Dodge County weekly reads:

"It seems that a fellow had just paid off a mortageg on his house when he mortgaged it again to buy a new car. Then he went to a loan broker to borrow money on the car so that he could build a garage.

"'If I do make this loan,' asked the broker, 'how will you buy gas for the car?'

"'It seems to me,' the man replied in dignified tones, 'that if a fellow owns his own house, car and garage he should be able to get credit for gas!'"

Commissioners Press for Action

Several organizations have their representatives over at the State Capitol for the current session of the Legislature. These organizations will be contacting the senators and representatives, urging them to pass or defeat certain bills, and providing them with information on which to base their votes. One of these organizations is the Association of County Commissioners of Georgia.

The county commissioners are interested in a number of bills pending in the General Assembly this session. They are for some, and against some. Governor Talmadge, in his "State of the State" address Monday, mentioned the county commissioners' stand on his proposed constitutional amendment to slash the 5-mill state property tax to one-fourth of one mill. He said the local fiscal officers are sorely pressed by ever-rising essential expenses, and the state should get out of the property tax field and leave this source of revenue for the counties. He said the people wanted this done, as evidenced by their vote for him on such a platform in 1950.

"Senate Resolution 22, now in the House, is the most important remaining piece of legislation recommended by the Tax Revision Committee," said John Sammons Bell, attorney for the commissioners association. "Governor Talmadge has personally solicited the aid of the county commissioners to effect its passage."

The commissioners also want the Legislature to pass a bill relieving the counties of having to contribute to welfare payments. The counties now contribute 3 per cent to the relief checks. Still another bill indorsed by the commissioners would permit counties to pass ordinances in certain instances—a move toward home rule for counties. The commissioners also want a law to require all trucks transporting log and pulpwood to secure the cargo by a minimum of two iron chains.

A major wish of the local governing officials, however, is permission to contract with experts to re-evaluate property for tax assessment purposes. A court decision has stopped the counties from hiring these outside experts. The commissioners want permission to bring in outside experts to aid.

A fight may develop again this session on bus and truck weights. Passage of the Uniform Traffic Code was wrecked last year by a provision liberalizing the weights and lengths of busses and trucks. A fight raged between railroads and trucks. Now Rep. Howard Overby of Hall County is introducing a new Uniform Traffic Code, without reference to weights and measurements of busses and trucks. He foresees passage of this bill. However, there is a possibility that some other solon will introduce a separate bill on bus and truck weights and lengths. The county commissioners are against increasing weights, loads, and dimensions of trucks and busses upon state roads. They have urged stricter enforcement of present laws as to truck loads, weights and dimensions.

The commissioners note that a bill is pending which would eliminate the bluebook of auto tax valuations and would permit representatives from the Revenue Commissioner's office to fix such valuations, perhaps differently, in each county.

On another controversial bill, a toll-road authority, the commissioners have taken no stand. Their publication, "County Commissioners' Comments," carries the pro and con of toll roads by reprints from other publications. A gasoline dealers' publication warns that the Turnpike Authority would have the right to confiscate public or private property, that turnpikes would be fenced in all along the right-of-way, and that people in communities along the route would be deprived of tourist trade. On the other hand, the ARBA News pictures the opening of the newest superhighway—the New Jersey Turnpike, 118 miles long. This new traffic artery frees another bottleneck on the Atlantic Coast. There is not a red light or a left turn in the entire distance. A 60-mile-per-hour speed limit has been set up, and the roadway is four and six lanes. The "County Commissioners' Comments" offers no comment of its own.

Baldness is a Big Price to pay for Skepticism

YOU may be losing your hair because of—skepticism!

Impossible?

You'll get an argument on that point from George R. Stripling of Memphis. His hair started coming out and wouldn't quit. Like you, maybe, he kept hoping it would grow back—and consoling himself with the old notion that "if you're going to be bald, you're going to be bald."

So George Stripling was nearly bald and nearly desperate when he finally came up to the Mueller clinic. See photograph above.

Alopecia areata had done so much damage it took almost a year to regrow his hair. See photo at right.

Normally it doesn't take that long. Never does when you come to Mueller as a "first resort" instead of a "last resort." The only sure time to prevent baldness is while you have hair. Cheaper, too.

"Better be safe than sorry!"

Still skeptical about getting professional help for your hair?

wherein the governor appoints the board and the people elect the superintendent. Mackay and Willingham were undecided and Williams said he was "open to conviction," as he is on the toll road issue.

In the opening session of the Legislature, Sen. Millican introduced three local bills, one of which would repeal a 1951 Plan of Improvement act establishing a joint Atlanta-Fulton County Planning Board and a joint Atlanta-Fulton Board of Zoning Appeals. A companion bill would continue existing zoning regulations in Atlanta and Fulton County.

Millican's other bill would permit the terms of Fulton County grand juries to be extended so that grand juries could continue and follow through on investigations they begin.

HARTSFIELD OPPOSES

Meanwhile, Mayor Hartsfield called for defeat of a pending House bill that would further reduce the tax rate on intangibles from $3 per $1,000 valuation to 10 cents per $1,000. Hartsfield said the bill would cost Atlanta more than $400,000 a year ond would shift tax burdens from "corporate interests to the backs of real estate owners."

The DeKalb delegation is waiting to reach agreement on naming the commission before it introduces a bill creating a local government commission to study the governmental set-up of that county.

The Cobb delegation in the House introduced a bill Monday to permit the polls to remain open until 7 p. m. in that county on election days.

FULL-TIME MAYOR

Marietta's mayor would be a full-time official with a salary of $5,500 a year, under provisions of another plan slated for introduction by Cobb County solons.

Other upcoming bills affecting Cobb County are measures to place the Marietta police and fire departments under civil service and constitutional amendments that would establish fire and sewer districts in Cobb County.

A resolution naming the proposed state hospital at Augusta the "Eugene Talmadge Memorial Hospital" was passed by the Georgia House of Representatives Monday.

The resolution was introduced by administration leaders.

Coffin, a Richland housewife, was "seeing through" the term of office which death cut short for her husband, Sen. Charles A. Coffin.

Young Bob Russell, son of Judge Robert Russell of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, was sworn in to fill the unexpired term of Julian Bennett, who resigned.

A successful young lawyer who holds down the musty old office in a Winder bank building where the judge and the senator once practiced, young Representative Russell admitted his term in the General Assembly might be a trial balloon.

"I haven't any political ambitions at the moment," he confessed with a shy grin. "But I wouldn't want to say I won't run again."

Young Russell campaigned all summer, visiting hundreds of Bartow County farms to solicit votes. He is not prepared yet to introduce any legislation, he said, but will play a waiting and watching game.

He is married to the former Betty Ann Campbell, of Tallahassee, and has one child, 2-year-old Ann. He served in the Marines during World War II and won a Purple Heart at Okinawa.

Mrs. Coffin, who was sworn in by Supreme Court Justice Tom Candler in the Senate, is a trim, pretty young woman who insists that she has "no political ambitions."

"I felt that I ought to see this term through for my husband," she said soberly. "After that I'll quit. I don't know exactly what to expect because most of the legislation he was interested in went through last year."

MOTHER OF TWO

A native of Cochran and a graduate of GSCW, Mrs. Coffin has two children, Alice, 11, and Charles, 6. They are being cared for by their grandmother while their mother is serving as the one lady senator of this session.

For Rep. Miles Walker Lewis of Greene County, the reconvening of the Legislature meant an opportunity to get home from Tokyo where he has served with the Air Force judge advocate office since last April.

Lewis, an attorney, got a 40-day leave to attend the session.

"What I don't spend working, I'll spend traveling," he said, "but

March Deadline Set for Cobb House Candidates

Candidates for Cobb County's three seats in the state House of Representatives must qualify by March 22, the deadline set by the Cobb Democratic committee Monday.

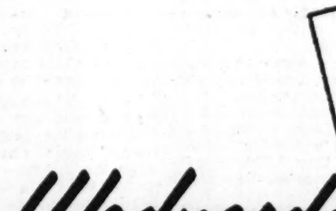

Cobb will elect three representatives this year for the first time since its population increased in the 1950 census.

Fred Bentley and Harry E. Williams are present representatives. Bentley is expected to seek re-election but Williams has announced he will be a candidate for the post of solicitor general of the new Cobb Judicial Circuit to be set up Jan. 1, 1953.

Two other candidates for House seats are Harold Willingham, present senator of the 38th district and Howell Ravan, Marietta attorney.

What's a "Ground Floor Price" in a DIAMOND?

We call our diamond prices "ground floor" prices, because they are as low as you can buy diamonds of equal size and comparable quality at any acceptable dealer. While it is needless to pay more, it is dangerous to pay less.
The danger exists because a difference in diamond quality not perceptible to the amateur, makes a considerable difference in price. We urge you to compare carefully.

Circuit Court Changes Asked in Senate Bills

Bills creating the 38th judicial circuit in Georgia and establishing the office of court reporter emeritus at a $200-a-month salary in each circuit were introduced in the State Senate Monday during a brief flurry of business before Governor Talmadge's speech.

A total of 29 bills and proposed amendments were tossed into the Senate hopper while the House refrained from offering any new bills in observance of a House rule against their introduction on the first day.

Among the bills were several welfare proposals and two proposed amendments clarifying the responsibilities of the board of education and the state school superintendent.

ALBANY AFFECTED

The thirty-sixth judicial circuit would be Dougherty County (Albany) under a proposal which would split off the rest of the present Albany circuit and make it the Camilla circuit. The latter circuit would be composed of Baker, Calhoun, Decatur, Mitchell and Grady Counties.

The bill creating emeritus court reporter was introduced by Sen. William P. Trotter, of LaGrange, who explained that the salaries would be paid from the counties' general funds on a population proportion basis.

Sen. Osgood Williams of Crawfordville introduced the measures giving the state school superintendent the hiring and firing authority and making the board an advisory and policy-forming group. (The bills would not affect the present method of electing the state superintendent.)

NEW WELFARE BILLS

Senate Floor Leader Grady Rawls of Albany tossed the batch of administration welfare bills into the hopper.

One would amend present law so that welfare lists can be opened to public inspection. Another would amend the Blind Aid Act by permitting examinations by an optometrist.

Three bills relating to dependent children would require the mother to name the father of an illegitimate child; make it a misdemeanor for a woman to bear an illegitimate child and make child abandonment a felony instead of a misdemeanor.

Atlanta's Sen. G. Everett Millican took the lead in a fight against dope traffic with a measure making the selling of narcotic drugs to minors a felony instead of a misdemeanor.

Other bills would:

1. Set a day speed limit of 60 miles an hour on state highways and a night speed limit of 50 miles per hour.

2. Bring the state director of entomology and the state director of mines under the merit system.

3. Tax state banks the same as national banks.

4. Require approval of the state banking superintendent for corporations trust power.

INFECTIOUS COLDS SPREADING

Every breath of this special MEDICATED steam brings DEEP-ACTION relief from coughs and stuffiness

Dangerous epidemic colds are threatening many neighborhoods. So take every precaution against infection. If a cold strikes anyone in your family, act fast and act wisely! To relieve even the worst distress of colds, be sure to use this modern, home-proved treatment—2 good spoonfuls of Vicks VapoRub in a vaporizer or bowl of boiling water as directed in package.

It's easy—you just breathe in the steam. Every breath carries VapoRub's special medications deep into troubled throat and large bronchial tubes . . . right where worst miseries of colds are! There this wonderful treatment medicates dry, irritated membranes, helps restore normal breathing, relieves coughs, and brings real comfort in no time at all!

For coughing spasms, upper bronchial congestion and that choked-up stuffiness of colds, there's nothing like using Vicks VapoRub in steam.

SPEECH

Senate a year ago but failed to get the required two-thirds majority in the House. Monday the House voted unanimously to reconsider, thus clearing the way for another vote.

FIGHT TOLL PLAN

Talmadge's original toll road proposal would authorize construction of a super-highway from Tennessee to Florida through the center of Georgia, and another north-south coastal road from South Carolina to Florida.

Rep. Charlie Gowen of Glynn County said such a bill would set up an entirely new road department that would spend more than the present highway board.

"If we are going to build toll roads, let the regular road department do it," Gowen said.

Rep. Downing Musgrove of Clinch and Rep. John Greer of Lanier both said they wanted to look at the toll roads plan a little more. Rep. Owen Adams of Upson is leading a fight against toll roads.

CITES ADVANCES

More than half of the governor's 4,000-word address was a review of Georgia's progress under his administration and he declared the state government is in "the best condition in every phase of its operation in our entire history."

Citing unprecedented progress in education, health welfare and highway services, Talmadge said "our people now enjoy more benefits from state services than ever before. Our children are receiving the best education facilities in history.

"We are moving rapidly toward a highway system that will rank with any other state in the country. We are taking care of our old people, dependent children and needy blind better than ever before."

In urging the legislature to adopt a six-point program to carry out his aims, Talmadge led off with the property tax reduction on which he campaigned in 1950 and declared the cut has become "a clear mandate of the people."

AID FOR DISABLED

In addition to urging this move and the creation of a turnpike authority, the Governor advocated:

1. A constitutional amendment hiking the annual appropriation for public school building from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually and creating a 20-year school building program.

2. A welfare program to provide financial aid for totally and permanently disabled persons.

3. A permanent voters list by repealing provisions of the voters re-registration act which would require more than 1,000,000 persons to re-register for this year's general election.

4. Repeal of the "off-year" general election for solicitors general.

REACTION TO SPEECH

Reaction to the Governor's speech generally was good. Such House administration leaders as Reps. Frank Twitty, Jack Ray and Howard Overby hailed it as a good, constructive speech.

Opposition members of the House, such as Reps. John Greer and Horace Vandiver, said Talmadge's progress report has carried out the platform of the opposition as laid down by former Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson in 1950.

They added they thought the speech was designed to lessen opposition to Talmadge.

In the upper chamber Sen. Guy Connell of Valdosta termed it "a very progressive speech" but said some of the program Talmadge outlined "will be controversial."

Sen. Osgood Williams of Crawfordville, an opposition leader, called it "a very forthright and progressive address" but said "the toll road bill, however, is doomed in the Senate."

MILLICAN FOR TAX CUT

Most of the solons from Greater Atlanta were complimentary toward the governor's message to the opening session.

Senator Millican termed it a "concise presentation of his program . . . what has been done, and his plans. I am in accord with his desires on the repeal of the property tax. However, I will have to study the substitute toll road bill before I make up my mind about that."

Senator Willingham said the speech was an "excellent and forceful account of what we need, and very convincing altogether. The Senate, I believe, will agree with the governor on most of his program."

Representative Alverson called it "a very good speech" and said "I certainly agree on elimination of the ad valorem tax." Representatives Bentley, Williams and Bell made comments ranging from "good speech," "right to the point" to "comprehensive statement of his goal."

State Docks Opening Due In November

The new state docks at Savannah will be formally opened next November, Chairman James D. Robinson Jr., of the Georgia Ports Authority announced Monday in Atlanta.

The chairman said construction of the new $5,500,000 dock facilities is on schedule. The authority is building four shipping berths, three transit sheds and railroad and truck ramps to the docks at the state port site.

At its meeting Monday the group invited Governor Talmadge and other state officials to attend the opening ceremonies and asked the American Association of Port Authorities to hold its 1952 convention at Savannah as part of the dedication program.

Other members of the authority are Henry W. Sweet of Savannah, general manager; Peter Roe Nugent, Savannah; James W. Smith, Albany, secretary-treasurer, and D. Leon Williams, Atlanta, assistant general manager.

BIG THREE

ment on the substance. In any case, he said, the place to examine the Soviet proposals was not the assembly but the new 12-member commission created last week and scheduled to meet by Feb. 10.

On Saturday Vishinsky told the committee the Soviet would now agree to continuous United Nations inspection of atomic facilities, but insisted that there be no interference in the domestic affairs of nations. The previous Soviet position had been that inspection visits must be periodic and announced in advance.

The Soviet foreign minister said Moscow also now was agreeable to having the prohibition of the atomic bomb come into effect when the system of international control went into operation. In the Big Four closed talks on disarmament just a few weeks ago Vishinsky had said prohibition of the bomb must precede the actual putting into effect of the control system.

TECHNIQUE STUDIED

The Western delegates conferred Sunday night and Monday on the best technique of meeting the Soviet step. The United States leaned heavily toward the view the Russians were pulling off a propaganda move, cloaked as an important concession. At the same time the Western Powers did not want to allow Moscow to put them in the position of apparently refusing to take "yes" for an answer.

The result of the conferences was the resolution tabled by Chauvel. It recalls that on Jan. 11 the assembly established the disarmament commission to consider all proposals for arms reduction and international control of atomic energy.

The resolution goes on to suggest that five paragraphs of the Soviet motion be forwarded to the disarmament commission. Those five included the Russian demand for prohibition of atomic weapons to come into effect with institution of the control, a proposal for a one-third cut in the armed forces of the Big Five, and convocation of a world disarmament —atomic control conference by July 15, 1952.

The tripartite resolution deliberately omits mention of the rest of the catch-all Soviet resolution. The deleted part includes the denunciation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the demand for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea within ninety days, and the proposal for a new Big-Five peace pact.

BIG-3 STRATEGY

Western strategy is to call for a vote first on the Three-Power resolution and try to avoid coming to a ballot on the Soviet resolution. But many Western delegates acknowledge they might not be able to prevent a vote on the Soviet resolution.

After having had a couple of days to think over the Soviet resolution, Western observers here have come to some tentative conclusions about Vishinsky's move.

Their thinking runs this way: given a history of Soviet good faith, the Vishinsky proposals could have been greeted as an indication that Moscow was moving toward the West on two essential principles—the timing of control and continuity of inspection.

But under the present circumstances it looks very much as though the Russians were trying to wind up the assembly with a major propaganda move. Western experts believe the Soviet "concessions" may not be as dramatic as Vishinsky said, and may be bound up with qualifications. But at the same time they fear the main impression the Soviet may make on the nonexpert millions in western Europe and Asia is that Moscow, in Vishinsky words, had extended its hand.

Some conveyor belts with speeds of 10 miles an hour are used in moving coal in mining operations.

poses, would be able to tell the electors in the general election whom to vote for.

Actually, the proposed bill sets up a commission to settle any disputes that might arise as to qualifications of the candidates for presidential electors.

This commission would be composed of the governor, the comptroller general and the attorney general. Comp. Gen. Zach Cravey is a staunch Talmadge supporter.

CHANGES POSITIONS

The bill would prohibit listing the names of the candidate for President and vice-president on the Georgia ballot.

At present it is optional whether the names of the presidential and vice-presidential candidates appear at the head of the Georgia candidates for presidential electors.

The measure also would tighten the "5 per cent law." Where the present law requires candidates other than Democratic to obtain a petition signed by 5 per cent of the voters, the new bill would diffuse this 5 per cent.

It would require the petitioners be spread among 100 counties with not fewer than 200 names in each of these 100 counties.

The Talmadge-sponsored bill would seek to stifle any move by an opposition local Democratic faction to back the National Democratic Party presidential and vice-presidential candidates if the Talmadge-controlled State Democratic Party designated electors pledged against the national party, observers said.

The governor would decide the dispute between the local factions.

WOULD BLOCK IKE

At present, the Secretary of State decides disputes. His decisions can be challenged in court. Some attorneys questioned whether the proposed commission could be challenged in court, since it is headed by the governor and the governor cannot be challenged without his permission.

Senator Williams' new bill would prevent the Georgia Democratic Party's nominating Eisenhower as its own particular presidential candidate unless he is the nominee of the national party. There had been talk that the Georgia Democratic Party might designate Ike as its candidate should Truman be the national Democratic nominee.

House Minority Leader John Greer of Lanier County said passage of the bill would simply mean letting Talmadge, instead of the people, cast Georgia's vote for president.

He termed it the worst in the series of dictatorial election control laws sponsored by the administration in the past few years.

HIT TAMPERING

Rep. Downing Musgrove of Clinch County said he couldn't understand why the administration wants "to keep on tampering with the ballot."

Senators Grady Rawls of Albany and Guy Connell of Valdosta, listed as authors of the bill which was sent from the governor's office, said they didn't know what its signifance might be.

Comptroller General Cravey said he understood it would mean a "slight change" in Georgia election laws. Secretary of State Ben Fortson, who is being deprived of his powers, said he had no comment.

Governor Talmadge said the bill merely "brings election laws up-to-date."

was unanimous, Judge Lee Wyatt concurred specially and said he elected to uphold the Authority solely on the grounds that he was bound to do so by former court decisions.

The constitutionality of the act was attacked by Steve Sheffield of Baker County.

The test suit challenged validity of the fact on the grounds that it permits creation of a state debt, exempts authority property from taxation and questioned legality of House Speaker Fred Hand's appointment as member of the authority.

The Supreme Court said "neither the act, the lease contract executed thereunder nor the revenue bonds issued pursuant thereto offend the constitutional inhibitions against state debts, donations or pledging the faith and credit of the state."

It added that since property of the authority is devoted exclusively to public charity, its exemption from taxation is valid; and that since the authority is not a state agency, Hand's appointment was legal.

The court's decision was hailed as "wonderful" news by Fulton School Supt. Paul D. West who said it gave the "green light" to planning for a $5,000,000 county school building program.

11 FOUND GUILTY

The outbreak of violence at the Cedartown mills followed the granting of a temporary injunction against mass picketing. Although Polk County Sheriff John Redding arrested several persons during the outbreak, Superior Court Judge William W. Mundy found only 11 of them guilty of contempt for violating the injunction.

The Supreme Court, while upholding the Superior Court's jurisdiction in granting an injunction, overruled the convictions of Mutt Young, Mrs. Doris Voyles, D. B. Young and Richard Morrow on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Cases against Mrs. Minnie Jo Swofford, Mrs. Doyal Presley, Mrs. Ernest Hulsey, Ernest Hulsey, Earl Williams, Joe Edwards, Jim Puckett, C. D. McElwee, Mrs. McElwee and Bud McElwee were upheld by the high court.

ARTHUR MURRAY 101 CARNEGIE WAY

Text of Gov. Talmadge's Address at Opening of General Assembly

Address of Gov. Herman E. Talmadge delivered at the beginning of the 30-day adjourned session of the General Assembly of Georgia:

Lieutenant Governor Griffin, Speaker Hand, members of the Senate and of the House of Representatives, distinguished officials and my fellow countrymen:

It is a happy occasion for me to meet again with your representatives of the people of Georgia to inaugurate another session of the General Assembly.

It is a doubly happy occasion when we know that we are here to put the finishing touches to great programs of improvement which we, working together, have put into effect to bring to the people the best services they have ever received from their state government.

Since I have been governor there have been four legislative sessions. I have without exception been able to work with the General Assembly and the General Assembly has been able to work with the governor. A governor cannot accomplish anything for the people without the aid of the General Assembly and the General Assembly cannot accomplish anything for the people without the aid of the governor.

STATE OUT OF DEBT

I am happy to report to you today that our faith in the future greatness of our state has proved to be amply justified. Georgia is out of debt and we are going to keep it that way for the next three years. She has a surplus of over $13,000,000 in the treasury.

We are now spending about $100,000,000 a year for common school and higher education in Georgia, more than double the amount provided for education when this administration took office. With these added funds we have been able to retain our capable teachers, to add about 3,000 new teachers and to reduce overcrowded classrooms. The teachers' retirement system has been expanded on a sound actuarial basis.

This added money has enabled us to establish a new 12th grade in high schools, to provide 800 more new school busses and to raise the pay of bus drivers.

The School Building Authority, created by you last year, validity of which is now before the state Supreme Court, will, we hope, ultimately provide approximately $170,000,000 in new school building construction and repairs to existing facilities.

APPROPRIATIONS DOUBLED

Appropriations for the University System of Georgia have been doubled by the present administration from $6,000,000 annually to $12,000,000 annually. An item of $1,400,000 for the University System appropriation is earmarked for capital outlay. This has made possible a $19,000,000 building program to provide the University System with needed new buildings. It has been of untold benefit to both the junior and senior colleges.

Through your co-operation in providing an increased appropriation, the State Health department is now carrying greatly expanded public health services to Georgians. Free health tests being conducted county by county provide a graphic illustration of the old axiom "that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

The statewide hospital program, instituted by this administration, has made possible the erection of 24 new hospitals located in areas of greatest need over the state. Eleven additional hospitals are under way and 10 have been approved for construction this year.

We have furnished additions and alterations to 11 existing hospitals and provided three nurses' homes. We have built a fine new laboratory at Battey and have furnished equipment for two more hospitals under this program. We have completed 25 new health centers, 14 are currently under way and two more have been approved.

HOSPITAL EXPANSION

Altogether, in this great hospital and health center construction program are 102 separate projects for a joint state, federal and local cost of over $36,000,000. It has three more years to run and it is estimated that $10,000,000 will be spent each of these years in this fine undertaking to bring the security of nearby hospitals to every person who needs their services. At the end of three years, it is believed that our needs for additional hospital beds will have been fully met.

Architectural and engineering plans will soon be completed for the 798-bed State General Hospital to be built this year at Augusta.

Long listed as one of Georgia's most acute needs, the new hospital will make possible: (1) Care of the state's indigent sick, (2) enlarged medical school enrollment, (3) a 128-bed cancer clinic, (4) a tubercular ward, and (5) a floor devoted to obstetrical cases.

In addition to impressive gains in the health field, your state has also more than doubled its welfare assistance programs.

When this administration went into office, there were 114,000 old people, dependent children and needly blind receiving an average of $18 per month under a total annual program then of $20,000,000.

Now, we have 150,000 of our needy people receiving average payments of $27 per month under a program which will top $50,000,000 annually by the end of the year.

ASSISTANCE TO NEEDY

This means, in plain words, that we have brought increased monthly benefits to all persons on the welfare rolls and have provided comparable assistance for 36,000 additional needy persons.

Our highway department today is doing the greatest job in its history. We are improving our through highways and rural roads at a faster and more rapid pace than ever before. The administration of the State Highway department is one of competence and integrity. It has drawn both state and national praise. For the first time, we are current with our federal-aid road building program. Georgia stands 10th in the nation in this regard coming before states which are far richer in material resources. We are building more rural roads than ever before.

Since assuming office, the present administration has completed, under way or let to contract a grand total of 6,000 miles of highways and rural post roads, at a total cost of $100,000,000. The outlay for maintenance and reconstruction has been doubled. Great stress is now being put on protecting our hundreds of millions of dollars invested in existing highways. Direct grants to counties for road construction under the Brooks amendment to the appropriations bill, which you passed last year, have been approximately doubled.

During the last three years, through the co-operation of this Legislature, we have been able to make unmatched progress at all of our state institutions.

The appropriation for Milledgeville State Hospital has been doubled, making possible many new buildings, a larger and better staff, better diet and more humane care and treatment for the patients.

NEW BEDS AT BATTEY

At Battey Hospital in Rome 400 new beds have been added to that institution. There is no waiting list. The number of doctors, nurses, orderlies, dentists and dietary employees has been virtually doubled. Twenty-four new doctors' homes, two new nurses' homes and other additions have resulted in a more efficient institution. Greater attention to diet requirements and adequate supplies of the new wonder drugs are providing the best possible care and treatment for the patients.

For the Academy for the Blind at Macon and the School for the Deaf at Cave Spring, we have furnished additional funds to launch a vitally needed program of improvement and expansion.

We have revolutionized our entire state prison system making it one of the most outstanding in the country. We have added a maximum security prison at Buford and a new boys' industrial training institute at Toccoa. These are making possible top productivit, from each prisoner and a better chance for real rehabilitation.

Since its inauguration, this administration has been deeply aware of the importance of good forestry practices to the present and future economy of the state. Your administration has extended the co-operative forestry protection and reforestation program from 43 to a total of 105 counties at the present time. It is my hope to have every county in the state under the forestry program by the end of this administration.

STATE PORT PROGRESSES

Construction work on the state port at Savannah is progressing satisfactorily. The original warehouse facility acquired for $800,000 by the administration shortly after taking office has already made in earnings alone over one and a quarter million dollars. It has paid for itself nearly twice. Docks and transit sheds, costing $5,500,000 are expected to be completed in November, 1952. They will be paid for out of income from the facility. When completed, Georgia's state port will contribute much towards the advancement of the state's trade, business and agriculture.

This General Assembly and this administration deserve credit for their services to the farmers of our state. We have developed a system of farmers' markets here that is generally conceded to be one of the most outstanding in the nation. We have more than doubled the number of farmers' markets in the state from 14 in 1948 to a total of 30 at the present time.

Recognizing the vital role which cattle will play in the state's future, we have erected a livestock disease and diagnostic laboratory at Tifton, which is being operated through co-operation of the State Department of Agriculture and the Tifton Experiment Station.

Four new mobile soil testing laboratories have recently been placed into operation to help farmers with their soil problems and in establishing permanent pastures.

Three new experiment stations near Calhoun, Americus and Waynesboro have been created to work with the main stations at Tifton, Griffin and Athens. At Gainesville, the poultry laboratory has been reopened. It is operated jointly by the State Department of Agriculture and the Poultry Improvement Association.

The farm still is the basis for our prosperity in Georgia. This administration will continue to give every co-operation to the farmers and their plans and programs toward furthering the tate's agriculture.

NEW JOBS, MARKETS

At the same time we have sought to promote industrial development in Georgia in order to provide jobs for our people and new markets for our raw materials.

Last year Georgia's industrial progress was the greatest in its history. More than 300,000 of our people are now gainfully employed as wage earners in industries throughout the length and breadth of our state.

Recently the governor of Rhode Island saw fit to criticize Georgia

Here's the Legislation Talmadge Wants General Assembly To Enact

Here is a summary of what Governor Talmadge wants the Georgia legislature to do:

1. House to pass a Senate-approved constitutional amendment to reduce state property taxes from five to one-fourth mills. This would save Georgia taxpayers about $7,000,000 a year.
2. Pass a constitutional amendment hiking the state school building funds from $5,000,000 to $100,000,000 annually to finance a $170,000,00 construction program over a 20-year period.
3. Establish welfare aid program to totally and parmanently disabled persons. About 8,000 persons would receive payments totalling $4,000,000 a year.
4. Create a Georgia turnpike authority to finance construction of toll express roads.
5. Establish a permament voters list by repealing provisions of the 1949 voters act which would have required more than a 1,000,000 voters to reregister to vote in the November general election.
6. Abolish the "off-year" general election.

and the South because of our industrial expansion. Georgia and the South have not attempted to steal a single industry from any of the New England states. Georgia welcomes industrial development that comes here, not for the purpose of exploiting our human or material resources, but for the purpose of becoming a good citizen and helping us to make Georgia a better place in which to live.

Last week the Associated Industries of Georgia organization released a statement which reported that this state's tax structure, from an industrial standpoint, compares favorably with any other Southeastern state. Our expanding markets, our competent labor, our excellent labor relations, our available raw materials, our temperate climate, our abundant water supply, our transportation system and our favorable tax structure are causing more and more industrialists to look to Georgia for their plant sites. This state's widespread development along all lines, in my opinion, will further increase in tempo. I confidently predict that within the next decade Georgia and the South will become one of the principal industrial areas of the nation.

COMPENSATION AIDS

And, for our workers themselves, we have materially increased both workmen's compensation and unemployment compensation benefits.

This Legislature and this administration have not forgotten the young men and women who served their country in time of war. It is a matter of deep personal pride to me that this administration worked day and night on their behalf and brought to them such a full measure of benefits under the GI Bill that Georgia now ranks second in the nation in the effectiveness of its state veterans service program.

Now, I have outlined to you how your state is bringing to our people the widest possible program of constructive services in the fields of education, health, welfare, highways, hospitals, institutions, agriculture, forestry and other vital departmental operations. This administration has sought at all times to obtain full value for every expenditure of tax funds.

As director of the budget, I have conferred with each and every department head charged with the expenditure of state funds. Georgia is fortunate in having able officials in charge of your departments who have had business experience and are operating the state with the greatest efficiency since its foundation.

Let me remind you at this time that this General Assembly, working in co-operation with the administration at its session last year, repealed the so-called emergency taxes and nuisance levies which resulted in saving of some $32,000,000 each year to the taxpayers of Georgia. Let me remind you also that the contemplated withdrawal of the state from the ad valorem field will account for another $7,000,000 saving to the taxpayers.

At the present time, the Constitution of Georgia allows the General Assembly to levy a tax on the value of real and personal property in the state to the extent of five mills. This tax is collected by the counties and remitted to the state.

PROPERTY TAX NEEDED

Revenue from this source during the last fiscal year amounted to a little over $7,000,000, which is only about 3½ per cent of the total revenue of the state at the present time. So, you can see that the property tax, as a revenue source, does not mean too much to the state government. But, on the other hand, it means life or death to our county and city governments who have few, if any, other sources of revenue except the property tax.

For several years, our Georgia Association of County Commissioners, whose membership is composed of the chief fiscal officers in every county in this state, and our Georgia Municipal Association, whose membership is composed of officials from every city in Georgia, have adopted resolution after resolution urgently recommending that the state retire from the ad valorem tax field, and leave it to county and municipal governments, some of which are sorely pressed by ever-rising essential expenses.

When I campaigned for governor over Georgia in 1950, one of the principal planks in my platform was the elimination of ad valorem taxation for state purposes. The State Democratic Party Convention, meeting in Macon subsequent to the primary, by a unanimous vote wrote this plank verbatim into the party platform. It has become a clear mandate of the people!

The Georgia Tax Revision Committee, meeting Nov. 4, 1950, adopted a resolution setting forth its recommendations to the General Assembly. This resolution, adopted by a vote of 16-1, recommended, among other things, "that the General Assembly give consideration to abandoning the taxation of property by the state." This proposal is the very cornerstone of a fair and equitable tax revision program. The people are expecting it.

There is now pending in the House of Representatives a proposed constitutional amendment which would limit the amount of ad valorem tax which the General Assembly could levy to a token amount of only one-fourth of a mill and that only for regulatory purposes. This amendment passed the Senate by the overwhelming vote of 47 to 1. I am extremely confident that if the House will give the people an opportunity to vote on this amendment, the people will pass it overwhelmingly.

SAVINGS FOR COUNTIES

Such action on your part will benefit both rich and poor, high and low. It will mean a yearly saving to the people of Appling County of about $13,000; the people of Baldwin County, $28,000; the people of Bulloch County, $39,000; the people of Chatham County, $365,000; the people of Cook County, $14,000; the people of Dougherty County, $105,000; the people of Fulton County, $2,000,000; the people of Mitchell County, $26,000; the people of Oglethorpe County, $11,000; the people of Turner County, $11,000; the people of Washington County, $18,000, and so on down the list of all the counties in the state.

It has been said that the people of some of the larger counties pay in more property tax than the people of some of the smaller, less populated counties. This is a specious and unfounded argument for the same thing is true with every tax levied by the state. The larger the county and more people it has, the more taxes it pays into the state and the more services it requires from the state. The saving of $50 in ad valorem taxation to a farmer down in Grady County is just as important to him as the saving of $200 would be to a property owner in Fulton County. This is doubly true with both the farmer and the small homeowner who cannot pass the property tax they pay on to the consumer as is the case with property producing a rental income. The farmer must absorb the property tax which he pays on his lands because the prices which he receives for the commodities he grows are fixed by market conditions beyond his control.

A QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY METHOD

Speaker Hand Queried by Rep. Holley of Augusta

There are three ways by which the state can withdraw from the property tax field. It can be done by executive proclamation, act of the Legislature or by constitutional amendment. It is my announced intention to abolish the state ad valorem tax levy in Georgia for all intents and purposes luring the calendar year 1952, by slashing the present rate from five mills to only a fraction of one mill. Such action will bring immediate relief to the taxpayers, but there will be no guarantee that some future governor or Legislature might not break faith with the people and reimpose the state property tax levy back to five mills. Without this assurance, greatly needed long-range fiscal planning on the part of our county and city governments would be badly crippled and hampered. For these two important reasons, the constitutional amendment method is by far the most desirable from the standpoint of evolving a stable tax structure in this state.

ASKS VOTE ON TAX

Every member in this house knows that this administration has been dedicated to strengthening our city and county governments throughout the state which are closest to the people. Everyone of our programs has been beamed in this direction. It is my considered judgment that the retirement of the state from the ad valorem or property tax field would immeasurably strengthen the fiscal operations of our counties and cities. I hope that you will give the people of Georgia a chance to express themselves at the polls on this vital matter.

Georgia is growing. Every city and town is showing the effects of this growth. Development can be seen on every horizon. The rising traffic load incident to this growth is becoming more and more of a problem. At many times of the day cars are traveling dangerously bumper-to-bumper between our cities on some of our highways. Over 900 people were killed on Georgia highways last year in automobile accidents. Car registrations have more than doubled, from 400,000 vehicles in 1945 to over a million in 1951. It is imperative that we move immediately to meet the problem of ever-increasing congestion on our highways.

There is also another factor which will become, during the next several years, of increasingly important concern. Defense of our cities against the threat of atomic attack and all other defense measures demand highways which will bring quick access between critical areas.

Other states have set the example by which Georgia can get these needed roadways on a pay-as-you-ride basis. Since the Pennsylvania Turnpike opened in 1940, toll roads have spread into state after state until now 18 states have such roads in progress or in the planning and construction stage. About 500 miles of toll roads are now operating in the nation, 350 miles are under construction in various states and 1,200 miles have been authorized or are in the planning stage.

Virginia has just authorized a Turnpike Authority. A commission is studying the matter in West Virginia and North Carolina is investigating its feasibility. The Pennsylvania Turnpike runs 260 miles across the state from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. Another 67 miles between Pittsburgh and the Ohio border is under construction. Ohio plans to build a similar express road from the Pennsylvania Turnpike western terminus to the Indiana line, a distance of about 250 miles.

TOLL ROADS ADVOCATED

There is a strong movement in Indiana for extension of the same road through that state, thus making possible an express highway from Newark, N. J., across the country to Chicago, Ill.

When the New York Turnpike is completed, the toll road network will reach from New York City to Buffalo, N. Y., and to Erie, Pa.

Colorado is building one from Denver to Boulder. Oklahoma is going ahead with a route from Tulsa to Oklahoma City.

Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut and New York also have toll roads in operation. West Virginia has proposed a toll road running north and south the length of the state.

Where these express highways are now in use, operators of motor vehicles, both passenger cars and trucks, have found that the savings in upkeep and depreciation alone more than paid the necessary tolls. Also, a good portion of the revenue is paid by out-of-state traffic.

As soon as the cost of construction has been amortized, the road becomes free and a part of the existing highway system. While we have built during this administration 6,000 miles of roads, we will not be able with existing revenues to build through highways for high-speed traffic as rapidly as they are needed.

A measure authorizing a Turnpike Authority for Georgia is now pending and ready for passage in the House. Since the introduction of that particular bill, many more of these authorities have been authorized in other states, and substantial additional experience has been gained from actual operation. For that reason, we have prepared a substitute Turnpike Authority bill which will be offered for your consideration.

It should be emphasized that any toll road built under the authority will be administered by it separate and distinct from the State Highway department. The effect will be entirely cumulative and will not result in the abandonment or neglect of any existing highways. Nor will it diminish the state road-building program in any manner whatsoever. It will continue in full operation.

TURNPIKE AUTHORITY

I also want to point out to the General Assembly that creation of such a Turnpike Authority in this state will not result in express-type highways being built in every direction all over the state. Since they must be paid for solely by the traffic which passes over them, these throughways will be of a very restricted nature and confined only to those areas where the traffic density is thick enough to repay their cost. They will have the beneficial effect of funneling traffic into the state, the consequence of which will be increased traffic on our existing highways.

Securities issued by the Turnpike Authority to finance land acquisition and construction will not, under any circumstances, constitute a debt or obligation of the state.

Georgia cannot afford to wait any longer in authorizing the beginning of a Turnpike Authority. Having given the matter close study, I respectfully recommend early enactment of this important legislation.

Now, I would like to discuss with you an important constitutional amendment which will be necessary to implement our School Building Authority properly. Under the present appropriation bill, we have an annual item of $5,000,000 earmarked as capital outlay for new school building construction and repairs to existing buildings. It has been estimated by the State Department of Education that this amount will provide $70,000,000 in new construction. A survey by the state School Building Authority shows that $170,000,000 is needed to equalize school plant facilities for both races.

Chairman Fred Hand of the School Building Authority has proposed that the annual outlay for school plants be doubled to $10,000,000 per year and that it be accomplished through the method of a constitutional amendment, specifically appropriating the funds in a fixed amount for this purpose. Upon investigation, I have found that in other states where revenues were pledged in this or a similar manner, to retire bonds or certificates of indebtedness, that the interest rate on them was cut considerably. On the $170,000,000 school building program, which we have under contemplation, we could, by constitutional allocation of the $10,000,000 each year to repay the School Building Authority bonds, affect a saving in interest alone over the 20-year period, of an estimated $12,000,000. The saving would go for buildings instead of interest payments. The full $170,000,000 building program, as recommended in the survey, can be accomplished in this manner. This, it seems to me, is a most compelling argument in favor of the proposal.

EXTEND WELFARE ACT

Last year, I requested the General Assembly to extend the State Welfare Act to cover needy totally and permanently disabled Georgians between the ages of 18 and 65 years. The administration measure making possible this type of assistance has passed the Senate and is now pending in the House.

There are an estimated 8,000 totally and permanently disabled persons in the state entitled to these benefits but who are not now receiving them. The money is available in the Welfare department to finance this new phase of the welfare program this year.

We estimate that $1,300,000 in state funds would provide average payments of $40 per month to these 8,000 total and permanent disability cases. When we put up this amount in state funds, we will receive an additional $2,500,000 in federal money, making possible an over-all program of approximately $4,000,000 per year for our people who are unable to help themselves.

I urge your sympathetic consideration for this humanitarian legislation.

Now pending in the House is a Senate bill amending the 1948 voter registration law. The amendment establishes a permanent list of qualified voters from those who were registered and qualified to vote in the 1948 or 1950 general elections. Those who fall in this category will not be required to reregister under the terms of this amendment. Persons who were registered to vote in the 1948 and 1950 general elections, but who have subsequently been disqualified, and those who have not registered to vote at all, must register as provided by law. I recommend that this amendment be passed at this adjourned session of the General Assembly.

Speaking of elections, I also want to ask that you abolish the so-called "off-year" general election now provided for by statute. Adoption of the new Constitution, which fixed the time for submission of constitutional amendments and the time for electing all state officials, except solicitors-general, in the regular general election at which members of the General Assembly are elected, has had the effect of rendering the so-called "off-year" general election a useless and expensive process.

PRAYS FOR PROGRESS

My friends, we have come a long way in Georgia in the last three years.

And I hope and pray that we may make similar progress in the next three years.

We have several important matters to decide at this session. On these questions you may agree with me or you may not agree with me but I am sure that we will approach them together in a spirit of harmony and a determination to do what we think is best for the people of Georgia.

It is with a great degree of satisfaction that I look back upon the good results we have achieved by working together in recent sessions of your honorable body.

And, it would be amiss if I failed to express publicly to the people of this state my deep appreciation for the friendliness shown to me and the wholehearted co-operation given to me by the rank and file of the present Georgia General Assembly.

To the people of Georgia I bring assurance that their state is now in better condition in every phase of its operation than ever before in our entire history.

Our people now enjoy more benefits from state services than ever before. Also, in the main, they are well fed, well clothed, well housed, are at work at gainful labor on the farms, in the commercial houses, in the factories and industries. Our children are receiving the best education facilities in history. We are moving rapidly toward a highway system that will rank with any other state in the country. We are taking care of our old people, dependent children and needy blind better than ever before. All our state departments are functioning at the highest state of efficiency.

Let's keep the ball of progress rolling. Let us continue to work for all the things that will make Georgia a bigger and better state. Let's join hands and march forward to a high goal which will, with the guidance of Almighty God, bring peace, progress and prosperity to our people now and to the generations yet to come.

Pay Boosts for County Officials Sought in Bills Before Senate

Bills asking for pay increases for several country officials were introduced in the Senate Monday.

Sen. Henry Trotter of LaGrange asked for an increase in the salary of the Coweta Circuit's court reporter from $2,400 to $3,600. Sen. Mose Edenfield of Darien introduced a bill giving the ordinary of McIntosh County $75 a month in addition to his fees.

Sen. Arch Farrar of Summerville sponsored a bill providing $50-a-month subsistence for compissioners of Chattooga County in lieu of per-diem pay.

Trotter's measure would discontinue special compensation by fee for the court reporter.

"The brightest young head coaching prospect in America today is Frank Broyles at Georgia Tech. He's got a motor running in his brain 24 hours a day"—A Southern Conference head coach.

BISHER

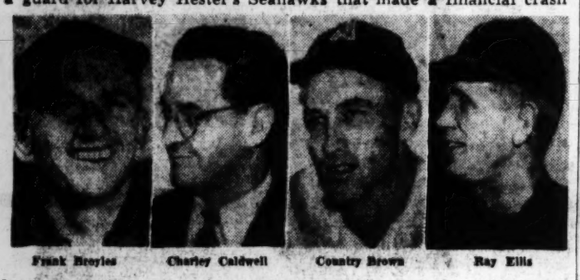

Washington State busily interviewed all sorts of candidates for Forrest Evashevski's job during the NCAA meeting, and among them was Tom Nugent, the VMI fellow. But the job came for Nugent, not Nugent for the job . . . Added starter in the LSU backfield coaching race: Paul Governali, the great Columbia quarterback after Luckman. He's now Dr. Governali, specialist in backfield operations . . . Strangest dialogue of the year: That of Jim Tatum and Bob Neyland as they narrated the Sugar Bowl movies at the coaches' clinic. Tatum's lines were marked by a condescending tenor, but there was a strained tug in the General's voice. After all, though, what can a fellow say after he's been run over by a freight train?

In view of Bear Bryant's new recruiting policy, would you say that Kentucky is going now only for registered thoroughbreds? . . . Among the possibilities in Ray Ellis' return to coaching: A spot at University of Louisville with old friend Roy Mundorff . . . Mundorff, whose landing in Louisville was accompanied by a ban on scholarships, greeted the movement philosophically. "That's the way I want it," he said.

There was an outfielder at Buffalo, when Paul Richards was manager, named Coaker Triplett, a damaging hitter. After he'd gone 0 for 5 one day, he went into a severe state of despondency. "Don't let it get you down," Slug told him. "I've had days like that myself." "I know it," Triplett said with a moan. "But you're used to it."

Taylor Played for Hester's Hawks

When Chuck Taylor was presented the Coach of the Year plaque, he wisely acknowledged its limitations. "I understand this is strictly for 1951," he said. "No consideration was given for what has happened in 1952" . . . This is the same Chuck who played a guard for Harvey Hester's Seahawks that made a financial crash landing in '46 . . . Taylor's got a pretty handsome record for a young'un, coach for just a year and already Coach of the Year. That's batting pretty close to a million.

I understand that Bob Allman, the blind boy who captained Penn's wrestling team, will play a golf match with Charley Boswell in Atlanta sometime in March. Boswell, as if you should be reminded, is the Alabama football great who lost his sight in the war . . . While the public studied feverishly the fight of Capt. Carlsen of the Enterprise, 45 went down in the Pacific with far less press furore. It's the manifestation of an old newspaper feeling that death loses its sting in numbers . . . It can be correctly assumed that Bill Spivey's college basketball career is done.

Overheard as a group of elderly ladies emerged from a meeting room adjacent to the NCAA sessions in Cincinnati: "Must be the Vassar coaching staff, and I wonder what they're de-emphasizing?" . . . Men, no doubt . . . Definite characteristics of a football convention as against the baseball gathering: Bigger necks, broader shoulders, broader seats and many more bowties . . . Iowa is having a near repeat of the N. C. State coaching performance, in which Beattie Feathers was reduced to the freshman job. Len Raffensperger, deposed for Forrest Evashevski, has been told he can stay aboard, if he wishes.

How Now Bosox Without Williams?

Pageant, a small sort of magazine, goes to great extent in a recent issue to warn golfers of "the frustration and disappointment" of going for the hole-in-one tournament. Which can be interpreted as a guarded confession of how tough things must be in the subject field these days . . . In spite of Country Brown's stout words on retirement, Buzz Bavasi, the Brooklyn vice-prexy, says "we feel sure we can make Brown happy in our family." Maybe they'll put him behind the concessions stand at Ebbets Field, since he's gone in for merchandising with such energy . . . My favorite coaches' names: Rix N. Yard (Penn), Jack L. Blott (Michigan), Fred D. Tootell (Rhode Island State) and Preston V. Overall (Tenn. Tech).

Men of Letters: "When you wrote up the Orange Bowl game saying that Tech had tough luck, I can't see it"—Rhodes Hardison, Louisville . . . "How can you write like you did on the Orange Bowl game that Tech is lucky? Why not admit they've got a great team and let it go at that?"—Jack T. Smith, Atlanta . . . If you two gentlemen would kindly meet on neutral ground and thresh this thing out, it would greatly ease my mind.

They've got a new line of shoulder pads on the market that is supposed to greatly reduce the shock of impact. Now all they need is a gadget to eliminate the shock of defeat . . . We shall now discover how right those critics were who said that what the Red Sox needed was no Ted Williams . . . And I can remember when a glass of milk cost but a nickel . . . If you're the longshot type, Florida and Olé Miss offer wondrous opportunities in 1952 SEC football . . . Selah.

Ramsay Leads Way With 24, Shain Sinks 16 for Bulldogs

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 14—(AP)—Kentucky's most prolific point-producing basketball machine in history pranced to an "off-key" 95-55 victory over much-beaten Georgia here Monday night.

The walk-away wasn't unexpected, but the game developed a couple of surprises.

One was the near-capacity crowd of 8,000 persons that turned out on the Louisville armory's neutral floor to see a game that had "no contest" written all over it. It was a Georgia home game, moved to Louisville by popular request.

The other was the effectiveness of a zone defense employed by the Georgians. It caused Kentucky considerable trouble, especially in the first quarter.

But despite much sputtering and misfiring, the nation's third-ranking cage power took command and coasted most of the way.

Frank Ramsey led Kentucky's third Southeastern Conference victory with 24 points, followed by Bobby Watson with 19 and Cliff Hagan with 17. Hagan, leading Kentucky scorer this season, was checked by a sinking defense that jammed up the pivot spot.

Bill Shain led Georgia scoring with 16 points.

Steelers Put Geri On Block

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14—(AP)—The National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers put halfback Joe Geri and tackle Frank Wydo on the trading block Monday in an effort to secure a veteran T-formation passer before the National League draft meeting opens Thursday at New York.

Coach Joe Bach, ex-St. Bonaventure coach who recently succeeded Johnny Michelosen as head tutor of the Steelers, is planning to provide a more open style of play for Steeler fans. Michelosen favored the single wing attack.

Geri, a resident of Phoenixville, Pa., and former Georgia U. ace, has been a triple-threat star for the Steelers. Last season he set a new Steeler scoring record of tallying 67 points.

Wydo, exclusively an offensive tackle, has played five years for the Pittsburgh eleven.

Rapid Rebs Wreck Engineers, 94-64

By EDWIN POPE

Ole Miss' rapid, rabid Rebels hawked 40 minutes' worth of loose basketballs, fast-broke the legs off fumbling Georgia Tech and piled up a relentless 94-64 rout at Tech gym Monday night.

Tech's unhappy talent for hitting the opposition on its hottest evenings continued unbroken. The bolting bluemen of Bonnie Graham clicked on an astonishing 40 per cent field goal attempts. When it was all over, four regulars still had enough steam left to play a "pick-up" game with some tykes who were as impressed as everyone else by the Delta display.

That was what Whack Hyder's Jackets were up against.

Ken (Cat) Robbins, a stringy 6-2 forward who popped right out of the school's home town of Oxford, rammed in 21 points and Robert (Cob) Jarvis and Bob Ross counted 19 more apiece in the assault upon Tech's reeling court dignity.

It was Tech's third Southeastern Conference loss without a victory, its fifth setback in nine games over-all. The debacle shoved Ole Miss over the .500 mark SECwise at 4-3 and was the Rebs' eighth triumph against six defeats in all competition.

Junior forward Pete Silas achieved his usual full-karat stature, and scored 22 points, mostly on tip-ins. But his support was a straggling, weary thing even before the Rebs had roared to their 51-33 halftime lead.

Ole Miss, already this season a victim of a record 116-58 shellacking at the hand of Kentucky, made no especial effort to surpass the 90-point mark for the fourth time this year. Graham kept substitutes on the floor a good part of the fourth quarter. But even that couldn't keep senior Jim Childers from nailing the 89th and 90th points with a neat tip-in, and subs Eddis Stenftenagel and Walt Johnson from piling in the last four points in the dying minutes.

Silas did get unexpected aid from junior Peden Templeton, who flamed with 13 points in the second quarter and wound up with 14. But even Pencil Pete's senior pals, Bill Cline and Teeter Umstead, did not work effectively on vital screen set-ups in the scoring zone.

Ole Miss' foul-line precision also was a heavy factor. Where Tech hit only eight of 19 free throws, Ole Miss ringed 16 of 24.

Twice in the first quarter, Ole

THE BUCHANAN FARMER

Whit Wyatt Named Miami Beach Pilot

By FURMAN BISHER

J. Whitlow Wyatt, the Buchanan farmer who taught Atlanta Cracker pitchers the last two baseball seasons, became a manager Monday. From Miami Beach, Business Manager Joe Ryan announced that he had signed the ex-Dodger gentleman to manage that resort city's 1952 Florida International League club.

This concludes a story that began at the minor league baseball convention last December in Columbus, Ohio, when The Constitution revealed that Wyatt had been approached by the Miami Beach club. He and his old Brooklyn friend, Dixie Walker, were separated by a Southern Association economy rule that abolished full-time coaches.

Whitlow Wyatt

Wyatt, however, remains a part of the Cracker family, for the Beach Flamingoes are Earl Mann's class B farm club by working agreement. The club is home-owned. Last season it was a community proposition. This year Ryan and two Miami Beach businessmen bought up all club stock.

Wyatt and Walker still will be in parnership during the Spring training period at Pensacola. Wyatt will assist Walker with the Crackers until his own Spring training camp opens at Miami Beach. Wyatt succeeds former Cracker catcher Spec Dozier, who resigned after a sixtl.-place finish

Bid for White Sox Presidency Seen in Comiskey's Stepdown

CHICAGO, Jan. 14—(AP)—Twenty-five-year-old Charles A. Comiskey II Monday resigned as vice-president and secretary of the Chicago White Sox in an apparent bid for the club presidency held by his mother.

Charles Comiskey

The latest family squabble in the Comiskey clan was disclosed as young Chuck announced he was quitting his dual post because of "long-standing dissatsifaction" with his salary and lack of an office tenure.

The announcement, made by an attorney, said the resignation will be effective Friday when the club board of directors, itself mainly a family affair, will meet to consider acceptance.

The five-member board is composed of Comiskey; his mother, Mrs. Grace R. Comiskey; Chuck's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney, club treasurer; Thomas J. Sheehan, and Roy Egan. Sheehan and Egan run a law firm.

As vice-president, Comiskey worked hand-in-glove with general manager Frank Lane and team manger Paul Richards, but in the final analysis, Mrs. Comiskey was real boss.

Several years ago when Lane and former manager Jack Onslow were embroiled in a bitter feud, it was Mrs. Comiskey who, previously inactive in club affairs, stepped in and halted the bickering.

Mrs. Comiskey had no comment on her son's resignation, but indicated everything would right itself before or at the board of directors' meeting. Chuck said his lawyer would make all his statements.

His salary has never been disclosed, but presumably it isn't so much the money as the big stick Comiskey is after. His statement said he failed to "attain a tenure of offic. extended to other officials of the club not connected with the Comiskey family."

This non-family reference boils down mainly to the energetic and well-publicized Lane, whose present five-year contract runs through the 1953 season.

Araujo Stuns Sandy Saddler

BOSTON, Jan. 14—(AP)—A blistering final round enabled George Araujo, stocky Providence, R. I., boy to pull out a unanimous decision over Featherweight Champion Sandy Saddler of New York, in their bruising nontitle 10-round boxing bout Monday night at the Boston Garden. Those aggressive battlers kept a sell-out 13,859 crowd roaring from start to finish.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—Matchmaker Al Weill of the International Boxing Club said a Rocky Maricano-Lee Savold bout for Philadelphia Feb. 13 is being negotiated but has not been closed yet. Weill's stepson, Marty Weill, is the official manager of Marciano.

Roughness Penalty To Be Toughened

NCAA Rule Group Considers Suspension, Other Changes

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Jan. 14—(AP)—"This committee is going to take under scrutiny the unnecessary roughness which has cropped up in the game," H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, chairman of the NCAA football rules committee, said Monday.

Crisler reported unnecessary roughness and the liberal substitution rules are the two main concerns of the committee which started a three-day meeting this morning.

"The committee feels the rule and penalty on unnecessary roughness is all right," Crisler said after the initial closed session.

"If it has fallen down it is a matter of administration by the officials on the one hand and coaches on the other. In all fairness, the coaches have to accept some of the responsibility for guidance, control and advice to the players."

Concern over rough football arose after two outstanding injuries last season. Drake's Johnny Bright was put out of the Oklahoma A. and M. game with a fractured jaw, and Princeton's Dick Kazmaier was sidelined early in the Dartmouth game.

Both instances resulted in postgame accusations and Drake subsequently withdrew from the Missouri Valley Conference as a result.

The board of trustees of the American Football Coaches Association took cognizance of the Bright case last week at a meeting in Cincinnati. It established machinery for investigating any future cases.

Majority of coaches polled by their rules committee proposed the penalty for slugging and unnecessary roughness be increased from 15 yards and disqualification of the offender, to half the distance to the goal and suspension of the violator.

"The committee's approach to the rules is based first of all on the principle of safety of the players," the director of athletics at Michigan said.

"Next is the concern for maintaining a proper balance between defense and offense. Third is the public's interest."

Crisler said before the committee of 10 members gets down to voting finally on Wednesday it probably will screen as many as 150 proposed changes.

'Bama Hands Vandy First SEC Loss

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Jan. 14—(AP) — Alabama poured in the points in the first quarter and stopped Vanderbilt cold in the final period to upset the favored Commodores, 63-44, Monday night.

It was the first Southeastern Conference loss for the Commodores, who had shared the SEC lead with Kentucky on three straight wins. 'Bama previously had won two and lost three in league play.

Blaik Status Uncertain As Army Mulls Revision

Condensed From Constitution Wire Services

It is no certainty that football coach Earl Blaik will be asked to give up his position as director of athletics at the U. S. Military Academy, although the entire athletic policy is under revision.

"I do not personally feel that the two jobs should be held by one man," said Academy superintendent, Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, "but I do not contemplate any change immediately."

The general said he is studying "every aspect of the situation" and will name a board for further probing. But he emphasized there would be no decision on the division of the athletic directorship and the head coaching position until the board reports.

Regarding rumors that relations between Blaik and the Academy have been strained since the "cribbing" scandals, and that Blaik would soon resign, the general said only: "We have been asked what Blaik intends to do, and the answer is that we simply don't know."

Charlie Burr, 17-year-old Kansas jockey who became the seventh rider in U. S. history to win more than 300 races in one year, received the Hickock pro athlete of the year award for December.

Al Kircher, Washington State College assistant coach who reportedly was to follow head coach Forest Evashevski to Iowa U., will instead accept the vacated post at WSC, according to a statement by Washington State Athletic Publicity Director Don Faris.

Ben Hogan took over as golf pro at the exclusive new Tamarisk Country Club, Palm Springs, Calif., and said he plans to hit the tournament trail as usual this year, starting with the Masters in April.

Glenn McCarthy, Houston oil and hotel millionaire, said that Lou Hassell, former Rice gridder, will represent him at the National Football League meeting in New York Thursday. McCarthy says, "I certainly would like to see Houston and Dallas in the league . . . It would be a fine thing for Texas."

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan ordered a grand jury investigation of disorders that followed the Ernie Durondo-Rocky Castellani bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night. Witnesses earlier testified that Castellani's manager, Tommy Ryan, struck referee Ray Miller and later punched and kicked matchmaker Al Weill.

American college grid players who competed against professionals in a Honolulu bowl game and did not receive any money are still amateurs, the AAU said.

Boston Scribes To 'Beat Bushes' First Class: Fly To See 18 Rookies

From Constitution Wire Reports

BOSTON, Jan. 14—(AP)—A party of Boston baseball writers will accompany Bill Sullivan, Boston Braves' publicity director, on a transcontinental plane trip to get first-hand information on 18 of the Tribes' outstanding rookie prospects.

Ed Mathews

They will take off from Boston in a chartered plane Monday and head for Weehawken, N. J., to visit infielder Jack Cusick, recently obtained from the Chicago Cubs. That night, Jack Daniels, fleet outfielder up from Hartford, will be interviewed at his Prospect Park, Pa., home.

The following day the writers will drop off at Wilmington, Del., to visit outfielder Bill Bruton, up from Denver, and then head for Havana, Cuba, to watch Bob Thorpe, outfield prospect from Milwaukee, in winter baseball action.

The Tribal party will spend four days in San Juan, Puerto Rico, getting first-hand information on George Crowe, Jack Dittmer, Bill Klaus, Don Liddle, Murray Wall and Bert Thiel, who are performing for several winter baseball clubs. (Thorpe, Dittmer and Liddle are all former Atlanta Crackers.)

Pitcher Ernie Johnson then will be visited at his Los Angeles home and ex-Atlanta farmhand Ed Mathews at Santa Barbara, Calif. Before heading east, the writers will drop in on pitcher Gene Conley at Richland, Wash.

Stop-offs will be made to visit with pitcher Virgil Jester at Denver, second baseman Billy Reed at Shawano, Wis., shortstop Harry Hanebrink at St. Louis, outfielder Pete Whisenant at Evansville, Ind., and outfielder Dick Hoover at Columbus, Ohio.

Alex Grammas, Memphis utility infielder who was optioned to Tulsa early last season, was sold outright to the Texas League club by the Southern Association Chicks.

Clem Labine, late pitching sensation of the Brooklyn Dodgers last season, signed his 1952 contract at a "nice raise." Labine posted a 5-1 record and a 2.22 earned run average in 14 appearances with the Dodgers.

Paul Campbell, ex-Detroit first baseman, was named by the Tigers to manage their Williamsport club in the Eastern League. He played with Toledo last year. This will be his first managerial assignment.

Arnold Portocarrero, 20-year-old pitching prospect of the Philadelphia A's who finished with a 12-14 record at Lincoln, Nebr., last year, was inducted into the army.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout, veteran of 18 seasons in organized ball, signed his 1952 contract with Detroit. The pitcher won nine, lost 14 in 1951, his 12th year with the Bengals.

Cleveland's Indians cut their roster to 37 players by selling pitcher Charley Harris and first baseman Herb Conyers to their Indianapolis farm club of the American Association.

WILL 'BEST' BE GOOD ENOUGH?

Georgia Mermen Off For Seminole Country

Special to The Constitution

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 15—Georgia's swimming team, returning aces from its 1951 Southeastern Conference championship juggernaut plus two outstanding sophomores, is expected to be the strongest in the school's aquatic history—yet may easily drop its first two dual meets.

The Bulldogs launch their 1952 campaign Thursday night against Florida State University at Tallahassee and splash with Gainesville Friday afternoon.

Charley Guyer

Both the Seminoles and the Gators claim the strongest teams in their swimming annals.

FSU, only team to trim Georgia last season, is loaded with veterans who won the 1951 Southern AAU team championship, shading Georgia by two points: co-captain Dick Wells who placed second to Georgia's Charley Cooper in the SEAAU 100-yard freestyle in 1951; Walt Jardine, SEAAU 440-yard freestyle champ and third in SEAAU 220 (won by Cooper); and co-captain Pete Dunn-Rankin, member of FSU's SEAAU 400-yard freestyle relay team champs.

Newcomers strengthening the Seminoles include George Cooper, a transfer backstroker from University of Miami; Sid Baruch, member of all-American high school team as freestyle sprinter at Lake Worth, Fla.

Gator aces include Bobby Prevatt, 1951 SEC champion in 220,440-yard and 1,500 meter freestyle; Jim Enyeart, SEC record holder in 100 and 200-yard backstroke; Allen Wynroth, second in SEC 1,500 meter freestyle last year and third in both 220 and 440-yard freestyle; Ted Robinson, nation's top high school breaststroker, and Luis Child, freestyler from Columbia, South America.

Georgia's hopes for victory rest on Coach Bump Gabrielsen's Big Four: co-captain Charley Cooper, SEC champion in 50 and 100-yard freestyle; co-captain Charley Guyer, SEC champion in 100-yard breaststroke and 150-yard individual medley; sophomore Reid Patterson, SEAAU 200-yard backstroke champion and sophomore Steve Mitakis, winner of both low and high board diving contests in 1951 Invitation meet at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Much help is anticipated from James Harris, diver and sprinter of Atlanta; Chuck Henninger, SEC 200-yard breaststroke champion; Aubrey Whelchel, sprinter of Covington, Ga.; Charles Sligh, sprinter and backstroker of Athens; and Yutch Stolz, distance man of Atlanta.

"It's January 1952, and I've been sitting here thinking and making my resolutions.

"I want some shares of stock to call my own. Want to see what it feels like to sign my name on the back of a dividend check. If that makes me a capitalist, it's fine with me!

"I thought it over—and I'm not planning to sell out just because the price of my stock goes up or down 24 hours after I buy it. I'm just foolish enough to believe American business will grow stronger and not weaker in the years ahead. Anyhow, I'll take that chance.

"You think I'm taking a risk? Sure! I'm taking a risk, but so are the million people who own automobile stock. And I'm taking a risk like the million people who own chemical stock. Like the million who own telephone stock."

This year many men and women who think like that will buy stock for the first time. And that's wonderful. But remember this:

(1) Don't buy stock with money you need for life insurance, mortgage payments, medical expenses, or emergencies. If you haven't saved money for necessaries, it's too soon to buy stock.

(2) Don't buy stock on a well-meaning friend's "tip." If you don't know the business record of a company, get the facts from a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange.

(3) Don't buy if you can't afford to take the same sort of risk a man runs when he opens a corner store, a risk in the hope of a business profit.

Member firms of the New York Stock Exchange invite your questions. You need no appointment. You can drop in or write for any information you need.

Pittsburgh Names Dawson Head Coach

Ex-Tulane Mentor Leaves Michigan State Aide Post

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 14—(AP)—A new hand grasped the helm of Pitt's wavering football fortunes Monday as Lowell (Red) Dawson got the head coaching job at the skyscraper university.

Dawson, backfield coach of the Michigan State Spartans, came close to being a unanimous decision. He was the first choice of Athletic Director Tom Hamilton and of the student body.

A veteran of 20 years' coaching experience, Dawson gets a three-year contract. His salary was not disclosed. A Pitt spokesman said the new coach will pull into Pittsburgh in the near future to look over the scene of his future triumphs—or defeats.

Announcement of Dawson's selection followed a two-hour meeting of the Pitt board of trustees. They acted favorably on a recommendation of their athletic committee that Dawson be given the post.

Dawson, who is 44, could have had the job last summer by merely saying yes. But he turned it down, saying acceptance would mean giving Michigan State a very skimpy notice.

Dawson said he plans to use T-formation teams at Pitt—unless the squad is not fitted to it. He plans to move his family to Pittsburgh about Feb. 1.

The vacancy was created last July when Pitt Coach Len Casanova suddenly quit to take a coaching job at the University of Oregon. He said his family wanted to live on the Coast and Illness in the family made the move imperative.

Athletic Director Hamilton jumped into the breach and served through the 1951 season as both coach and athletic director. Playing a tough schedule he had drawn up himself.

More than 80 job hunters wooed Pitt during the last year and a half—but none put Dawson out of the favorite's spot.

After quarterbacking at Tulane for three years, Dawson began his coaching career at Minnesota as backfield mentor. In 1936 he became Tulane's head coach. In 1939, his Tulane team was undefeated all year but lost to Texas A&M in the Sugar Bowl.

Records Fall As LSU Bops State, 103-78

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 14—(AP)—Louisiana State ran up its highest score in basketball history Monday night to whip Mississippi State, 103-78.

After winning nine straight games, Mississippi State has now lost three in a row and plummeted from the top of Southeastern Conference standings into the second division.

Bob Pettit, LSU's local product who ranks in the top five nationally in points scored per game, added 25 against State for one of his better nights. Joe Dean, however, another LSU star, outscored him by one point. Sub Joe Belcher added 16.

LSU's previous high-scoring mark was 101 against Camp Livingston in 1943.

The game set a new Southeastern record for number of points—181. The previous high, 174 by Kentucky and Mississippi, was set about two weeks ago.

Other oddities in the game included 56 fouls; 31 fouls by LSU; 42 field goals by LSU; 68 field goals by both teams and 70 free throws attempted, 31 of them by State.

CALLS ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT 'ANOTHER HITLER'

Joe Louis Challenges PGA Tourney Ban

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 14—(AP)—Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis and two other Negro golfers showed up Monday to challenge what they said was a Professional Golfers Association ban on non-white players.

They appeared for pre-tournament qualifying tests in the PGA-sanctioned San Diego Open, starting Thursday.

Horton Smith, the PGA's president, announced meanwhile, that the Louis case was not closed and that he would present it to the PGA's national tournament committee. He said he had not personally barred Louis.

The question of the ban on Louis and the two others, announced by the tournament sponsoring committee here Sunday, became involved in what appeared to be conflicting interpretations.

Members of the local committee said they were told by Horton Smith, PGA president, after they had invited Louis to play as an amateur except from qualification, that he was banned by a PGA by-law.

Smith himself said at Pebble Beach that there was a long-standing PGA rule against non-white players in tournaments co-sponsored by the PGA.

A spokesman at Chicago headquarters of the PGA said the non-white ban applied only to PGA membership.

Harry Moffitt, PGA secretary, said at Toledo, Ohio, that Louis was barred from the San Diego Open because he hadn't signed a required players agreement.

HORTON SMITH
Tangles with Joe Louis

Informed about the statement, Louis declared that it was just another means of enforcing the non-white ban. He said that Bill Spiller and Ted Rhodes, Negro professionals, had applied three years ago for such agreements and were still being told the matter was under consideration.

Louis and Los Angeles professionals Spiller and Eural Clark reported at Club links for the qualification required of players not among the accepted list of top players.

The former champion was told at the La Jolla Country Club he was an invited amateur exempt from qualification. He teed off on a practice round anyway.

Horton Smith said at Pebble Beach he was leaving Monday for San Diego and would take the Louis case up with the PGA national committee after conferring with local tournament officials.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "I would be very pleased and think it proper to reconsider the rulings at the earliest possible time." He regretted that Louis had credited him with personally enforcing the ban and calling him "another Hitler."

The local committee said the applications of Louis and, if they qualify in the pre-tournament play, of the two other Negroes would be presented to the PGA for final action.

Irish Quint Challenges High-Riding Smithies

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Bridegroom-to-be Jim Hinson's O'Keefe Irish, already having written "30" to Brown High's 30-game City League winning streak, will be out to put the first black mark of the season on the record of Shirley Watkins' loop-pacing Smith Smithies on Smith hardwood Tuesday night.

Brown and West Fulton, tailing Smith in second place along with O'Keefe and Roosevelt—all with 3-1 league won-loss compilations—will be maching baskets in an equally important set-to on the Owls' Bankhead Highway floor.

Other Region 3-AA jousts will send Brady to Roosevelt, North Fulton to Fulton, Bass and Sylvan to Brown, and Murphy and Southwest to Bass. Girls' games will open all bills at 7:30 p. m.

Avondale's Bluebirds, setting a torrid DeKalb County League pace, will pay a visit to the Stone Mountain court with an eighth victory in nine outings in sight as second place Chamblee (6-2) plays host to stout Druid Hills (4-4) in the feature fracas. Clarkston will be at home to Southwest DeKalb, and Lithonia will highway it over to Tucker for other cage-wise get-togethers.

O'Keefe's chances to topple the well-rounded Smith five rest with the ability of Billy Salter, six-four center, and gangling Jimmy Nisewonger to cope with Smith's six-six Allen Cagle under the hoops.

Roy Rowlett's defense-minded Brownies will seek to become the first team to bottle up West Fulton's sensational Lee Roy Thompson, who has not been held under 16 points this year.

Roosevelt's Ernest Massey and Cue Stick Thackerson, first and second scorers in the league with 91 and 69 points, respectively, in four games, may find themselves hard pressed to outdo Grady's agile Harry Maziar, who has averaged 16.3 points per game.

North Fulton's Wade Mitchell, who has fired for a 15.3 average in early games while recovering from an injury, needs only one big night to challenge all point makers except Massey.

WYATT

and has since signed to manage St. Petersburg in the same league.

"We're awfully glad to get Whitlow," Ryan said. "We think he'll appeal in every way to our baseball clientele, many who saw him play for Brooklyn. We know he's a good, sound baseball man who'll always have a team hustling for him."

With this assignment, Wyatt completes the field cycle of player, coach and manager. He broke in with the Evansville, Ind., club in 1928, bounced around the American League from Detroit to Chicago to Cleveland with only nominal success. It wasn't until he arrived at Brooklyn in 1939 that he found his meat. Two seasons later he won 22 games as the Dodgers clinched their first pennant since 1920.

He will be a bench manager at Miami Beach, though Ryan said that Wyatt had indicated he might get back to the mound in case the necessity arose. Wyatt made his last active appearance one Sunday last Summer when he lost a close one to Mobile in seven innings.

He is 43 years old, married, has a son and clings fiercely to the farm he has grown to love near Buchanan.

Parole Body Studies Plea Of 3 Lifers

The State Pardon and Parole Board Monday took under advisement a petition asking for the parole of three Negroes sentenced to life imprisonment in the slaying of a white tenant farmer in Schley County.

Rosalie Ingram and her two sons, Wallace, 20, and Sammy Lee, 17, were sentenced by the late Judge William M. Harper on Jan. 28, 1948, after a Sumter County jury had found them guilty of murdering 60-year-old John Stratford.

Atlanta Negro Attorney Austin T. Walden, who appealed the case to the State Supreme Court, told the board "any two boys would have done the same thing these two did if they heard their mother screaming and saw her being attacked with a knife by a man.

"She had taken the gun away from Stratford," he continued, "and the oldest boy, Wallace admits he hit the white man with it once. The mother was cut on the forehead, the record shows."

MOVIES' "BARNUM" FETED ON VISIT HERE

MOVIES SHOULD MOVE

Super-Showman De Mille Tips Success Secret Here

By PAUL JONES

Cecil B. DeMille, whose impeccable genius for sensing public preference has established him as the Barnum of the movie world, predicted here Monday that his latest Gargantuan screen effort—modestly titled "The Greatest Show on Earth"—would sell more popcorn in theaters than any movie ever made.

The showman, now in his 70th year, gave his recipe for supershowmanship when he said, "movies should move." The circus film, he said, "moves with such emotion, such realism and power that the popcorn machines in theaters throughout the world will quadruple their sales wherever this great story of the circus plays."

The reason for this, DeMille said, is that movie audiences viewing "The Greatest Show" will not behave like movie audiences usually do. "They will act as though they are sitting in a tent, observing a real circus," he explained.

"I saw evidence of this at the world premiere in New York," said the master showman. "Radio City Music Hall buzzed with the chatter of the 6,000 fans. The movie spectators seemed to feel they were sitting on the opposite side of the great arena with the screen audience on the other side. The activity in the arena served to divide the audience."

DeMille described "The Greatest Show," which was filmed entirely under the Ringling Bros.-Barnum and Bailey big top, as "a personal story, a story of people, a story of how they live, love, fight—and die."

DeMille was accompanied to Atlanta by his daughter, Cecelia, and her husband, Joseph W. Harper. They were entertained at a luncheon given by George C. Biggers, president of Atlanta Newspapers, Inc.

The movie will be released here in February.

Hearings Set On Fulton '52 Budget

The Fulton County Commission will hold a public hearing on its tentative 1952 budget of approximately $9,500,000 at 10 a. m. Tuesday in the commissioner's room at the courthouse.

Frank R. Fling, clerk to the commision, said the public is urged to attend to express its feelings on the new budget—some $900,000 less than the 1951 budget—which has been under attack from various quarters which have said it should be about $4,000,000 less because of county services transferred to the city by the Plan of Improvement.

Duke Appeals Case

Attorney Daniel Duke Monday appealed to the Supreme Court a lawsuit challenging legality of city policing of unincorporated areas of the county on a contract basis.

Judge Walter C. Hendrix dismissed the suit from Fulton Superior Court Dec. 29 without ruling on questions raised in the suit whose main point was that the city has no right to police jurisdiction over citizens who have no electoral voice in the city government.

Mennonite farmers from Europe and Canada have followed a mass migration path since the war, going to the swampy wilderness of the Paraguayan Chaco.

Mayor Proclaims Jaycee Week on Club's Birthday

Mayor Hartsfield has proclaimed this week "Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce Week."

Congratulating Jaycees on their 30 years of community service, the mayor also urged young men between 21 and 35 years old to participate.

J. A. Wyant, Atlanta Jaycee president, said 1952 projects will include a vast voter registration program, blood procurement among local business firms, a year-round public safety program, an "Alert America" and a civil defense program.

'Leggers Curbed, Officer Reports To Clergy Here

Atlanta's moonshine whisky sales have dwindled to "practically nothing," and bootlegging in this area is virtually dried up, Lt. I. A. Thomas of the Atlanta police vice squad told the Atlanta Methodist Ministers Association Monday.

The current condition resulted from law enforcement officers' activity and consumers' reactions following the city's recent epidemic of poison liquor deaths, the officer said.

Partisans File to Truman Seeking Election Decision

Leaders Eager To Organize Campaign Remain Uninformed

By CLAYTON KNOWLES
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—The file of Democrats beating their way to the White House in an effort to learn whether President Truman intends to stand for re-election began to lengthen Monday as party leaders, eager to organize for the national campaign, began to press for guidance.

Mrs. India Edwards, vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Senator Humphrey of Minnesota left Mr. Truman Monday none the wiser on the subject. Both said they were convinced the President still has not made up his mind.

Senator Kefauver of Tennessee visits the President Tuesday at noon, presumably to put the cards on the table with regard to the possibility of his own candidacy.

ANDERSON PARLEY

On Wednesday, Senator Anderson of New Mexico, chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, will go to the White House, undoubtedly seeking word, one way or another, that will enable him to start planning how to increase the now slim Democratic Senate majority.

As the situation now stands, only Senator Kefauver has been brash enough to suggest that he might oppose the President within the Democratic Party, but even he is withholding a final decision until about the first of February.

Others, however, have indicated plainly that, if the President should step down, they would be available. Numbered in this category are Vice-President Barkley, a Kentuckian, and Senator Kerr of Oklahoma.

VINSON'S STAND

Similarly, Chief Justice Vinson reportedly has indicated to friends that, while he is seeking no office, he is not wedded to the bench. The chief justice holds a peculiarly high place in the President's regard and there has been wide speculation that, if Mr. Truman should not elect to run again, he might seek to have his good friend nominated.

Senator Kefauver said Monday he would prefer "not even to speculate" about what would be under discussion during the conference he sought with the President. He said, in answer to a question, that it would "not even be safe to surmise" that it would be about his own presidential ambitions.

COOL TO KEFAUVER

There has been a certain frostiness toward Kefauver at the White House since Democratic setbacks in the 1950 congressional election. Kefauver had toured major cities of the country with the Senate crime investigating committee that he headed. Disclosures contributed to the defeat of a number of prominent Democrats.

The problem for Anderson, who has not hesitated to speak up to the President in the past, is more of a party problem. In seeking to line up a strong slate of Democratic Senate candidates, he has to be able to assure the men he wants that there will be a strong national ticket.

He faces a stiff handicap in this direction so long as the President's intentions remain unknown, even to the inner circle. Some believe that Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, who weighed the idea of running for the Senate, announced that he would seek re-election because of uncertainty on this point.

Concern is the greater in many quarters because 19 of the 34 Senate seats to be filled this year are those captured by the Republicans in 1946 when, in the wake of public distate at continued meat rationing, they took control of Congress. Many of these victories were in areas where Democrats normally have an even chance of victory.

Developing of Radar Awarded $140,000

LONDON, Jan. 14 — (AP) — The man who gave Britain's Air Force its magic eye has received £50,000 ($140,000)—(tax free)—from his grateful country.

Sir Robert Watson-Watt, a shy 59-year-old Scotsman, was given that sum by the royal commission on award to inventors for his discovery of radar.

Sir Robert, then plain Robert Watson, was asked by the Air Ministry in 1934 to find a "death ray." Instead, he developed radar, a magic eye for spotting aircraft many miles away. It was one of the secret weapons that helped the Royal Air Force win the battle of Britain against the German Air Force.

Bar Public, Press at Fire Parley

A closed session barring both the public and press is scheduled for Wednesday by City Council's Insurance committee, it was learned Monday.

Ald Cobb C. Torrance, committee chairman, said National Board of Fire Underwriter engineers will confer with the committee Wednesday and added "news men are not wanted at the meeting."

"Anything we do will not become news until it is put in concrete form," Torrance told reporters. "I will tell you anything you want to know after the conference."

OPPOSE CLOSED DOOR

Other committee members, Ald. Lester Hardy and Councilmen John A. White, Jesse Draper and Douglas Wood, told news men they see no reason to bar reporters from "any session where public welfare is considered."

White, oldest member of council in point of service, and Draper, Hardy and Wood, told of Torrance's decision to hold an executive session, insisted the press be admitted to any conference or meeting involving public interest.

WANT REPORTERS

White and Wood said they would not vote to bar the press, saying "the only way to get an unbiased, accurate report is for reporters to attend."

The conference wil be held at 10:30 a. m. at the office of H. N. Pye, engineer of the Southeastern Underwriters Association, and was scheduled following receipt of a report from the National Board of Fire Underwriters on fire protection facilities in the new areas created by the Plan of Improvement.

The report is a supplement to the one made last December and was made by G. J. Robinson and G. Anderson, who said protection in some of the new areas are "seriously inadequate."

Blood Test Measures Effectiveness of Drugs

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

A recently developed blood test has proved valuable in measuring the efectiveness of various drugs used in the treatment of cancer and other diseases, Dr. Thomas H. Brem, chief of medical service at Long Beach, Calif., VA Hospital, said here Monday.

In Atlanta to address the three-day VA medical research conference at Lawson VA Hospital, Dr. Brem explained the blood test enabled scientists to determine the rate of growth of cancer and other progressive diseases.

He said the test measured the enzymes and enzyme "inhibitors" in the blood stream.

Dr. Brem noted that in cases where the drug or other therapeutic measure retarded the progress of the disease there was a definite change in the enzyme pattern in the blood within the first few days after treatment was begun.

HELPS PREDICTIONS

"If the drug produces a desirable enzyme effect," he explained, "we can predict that a patient will improve—and that his disease will be retarded."

He emphasized the test was not a test or a cure for cancer. He described it merely as a test to determine the progress of disease and to aid in evaluating drugs and other methods of treatment.

Dr. George Devereux of Topeka, Kans., VA psychiatrist who will join the faculty of Emory University School of Medicine next fall, addressed the conference on "Psychiatry and Anthropology" and said the degree of sickness of a patient could be determined by the patient's actions.

PSYCHIATRY USEFUL

Dr. Devereux said psychiatry could be used as an aid in diagnosis. He explained the scientist "can observe the patient and size up the way he handles cultural things . . . the way he reacts to society."

He said generally the mental patient who was noisy and destructive was not as sick as the patient who was quiet and dull. He explained there was more hope for a patient "when he is still fighting."

Dr. Joseph T. Aquilina of Buffalo, N. Y., told the conference that use of the hormone ACTH already has produced "dramatic" results in the treatment of rheumatic fever. He said ACTH seemed to prevent recurrence of the fever and to limit impairment of the heart.

About 80 medical research workers are attending the conference which will continue at Lawson through Wednesday.

Monoxide Kills GI

CAMP DRUM, N. Y., Jan. 14—(INS)—Pfc. Gene Wiggins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Wiggins, Clinton, Tenn., died at Camp Drum Sunday from carbon monoxide poisoning. He was overcome while sleeping in a boiler room. He was a member of the 278th Regimental Combat Team.

Human Source Of ACTH Seen By Physician

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 14. (AP)—Discovery of a possible human source of supply of the wonder hormone, ACTH, was announced Monday.

The new potential human source is the placenta, or afterbirth. The placenta is an organ formed during pregnancy to nourish an unborn baby. It is discarded after the baby is born.

Crude extracts of ACTH, or something very nearly like it, have been obtained from human placenta, Drs. C. N. Hugh Long and Jeanette C. Opsahl of the Yale University School of Medicine, report in the Yale Journal of Biology and Medicine.

Brows Arched at Lacey Evening Gown; Eyes Right at West Point's Gray Dress

By AGNES McCARTY
Constitution Women's Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—French waiters, even though accustomed to Deaconess of the Decollete—Hildegarde—exchanged lifted eyebrows across the Pierre's Cotillion room when Nettie Rosenstein's ivory chantilly lace evening gown was presented.

Newspaper fashion editors, assembled there Monday morning for the New York Dress Institute's sixth day of couture showings, gasped and commented, "You couldn't get away with that at home."

Editors, representing all sections of the United States and Canada, frowned at Rosenstein's daring dress but applauded her use of collars, draperies, and sleeves that grew out of the main body of the garment. They also approved her use of soft gold, bright red and beige with white.

One editor remarked, "The number is more suited to sirens than those inflamable sweaters the New York fire department has issued warnings about."

The Monte Sano and Pruzan selection of suits followed a "wearable skirt" theme. Skirts were full with bias-cut drapery in front and slim fitted backs. Jackets featured feminine basque waist.

This house presented coats of light chiffon wools and lacy tweeds. These are lined with taffeta to lend body to the lines.

Cut to remain style-wise for several seasons, coats in this collection represented an investment rather than a speculation, although most prices ranged in the $200 bracket.

Saturday morning editors traveled to West Point where they were special guests of the Sesquicentennial committee.

WEST POINT SALUTE

Winding through the Bear Mountain region, editors chatted concerning our visit to the masculine stronghold on the Hudson.

"It's nice to be going up for the landmarks, but I think this trip was scheduled anywhere from three to 30 years too late. For most of us, those button-bedecked young men would only notice us if we were carrying sewing kit," quipped one.

"Well, treat them with respect despite their young age,' cautioned another. "After all, great presidential candidates from little cadets grow."

After observing a review by the academy's corps of cadets clad in 44 button dress grays and overcoats with hemlines measuring 12 inches from the parade ground, the editors tossed off army blankets, protecting their knees from the West Point weather, and went to lunch and a fashion show.

MILITARY WEDDING

The fashion show, held in the War Department theater, drew many cadets and their "drags."

Presented by Lind-Gilbert associates, the fashion skit was woven around a military wedding. There were a few bathing suits as well as a final-scene bridal gown. Both drew enthuastistic applause.

After the show, Mrs. Frederick Irving, wife of the superintendent of the Military Academy, invited Georgia correspondents to her home for tea and Southern krum cakes.

Mrs. Irving is the former Vivian Dowe, daughter of Mrs. C. Frank Dowe, of Ponce De Leon Avenue, in Atlanta.

The major general's wife introduced Miss Latimer Watson, of Columbus, Ga., and the representative of The Constitution, to Mrs. L. D. Wallis, the former Katherine Lee, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Donald Blackburn, of Columbus, Ga.

Mrs. Wallis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, of Winona Dr., Atlanta. Her husband, Maj. L. D. Wallis, is the son of Mrs. L. D. Wallis, of South McDonough Street, Decatur.

During dinner at the Hotel Thayer, editors were seated with cadets from their area. There, Georgia reporters met Cadet Cpl. Joseph Walters, of Columbus, Ga.

Cadet Walters is a senior at the academy. He attended Georgia Tech for two years before receiving his appointment.

After church at the Cadet Chapel, and a tour of the Point, the fashion press returned to New York for a show of costume jewelry by Trifari.

FASHION IN POLITICS

Bus-weary and fresh from the Military Academy's impressive air of efficiency, editors were greeted at the Trifari party by Jinx Falkenburg and husband, Tex McCrary. They passed the hat for donations to the Eisenhower campaign and gave away buttons reading, "I like Ike."

Editors from Ohio (Taft's home state) donated heavily and sang the newly revised Irving Berlin lyrics to "I Like Ike," a song Berlin originally wrote for "Call Me Madame."

Ohio Ike supporters included representatives of the Akron Beacon-Journal, Columbus Citizen and the Ohio State Journal.

Cautious girls refused to go on record but heartiest "no comment" of all was made by a reporter from the Cincinnati Times-Star (Taft's own paper). She grinned and said, "In case you don't know it, my paper has already selected a candidate to support."

The Trifari collection was dazzling. Since it is difficult to trade in last year's diamond tiara, costume jewelry is designed to follow high fashion standards.

Phones on Wheels Speed Atlanta's Business Pace

By MARTHA SMITH

There's a select small group of Atlanta businessmen who keep their offices on wheels. Complete with telephones, these automobile offices enable their owners to keep in touch every moment with their clients.

Mobile telephone service in Atlanta comes under supervision of W. Kelly Mosley, Atlanta district manager. But Claude Blound is the mobile phone and private line radio representative. He keeps his office in his car, too.

Tucked under the dashboard is a black cradle-type phone. It's just like any other telephone except for the push-button on the staff. This button makes a mobile phone operate just like the old Army walkie-talkie radios.

To place a call to a moving telephone is as simple as a long-distance call. You dial long distance. Ask for the mobile operator. Then say:

"I want to call WJ5-2267," or whatever the number is.

Pretty soon the phone will ring in the automobile, your connection is made and it's like magic!

Approximately 75 mobile radio service phones are used in Atlanta today.

This service began in 1946 and Mr. Blount thinks the first customer for mobile phone service was contractor C. F. Mills.

Prize story of the mobile telephone staff is the occasion when an owner of a telephone on wheels came upon a disastrous wreck in a deserted area. He called the mobile operator, she contacted ambulance and State Patrol cars. In a matter of minutes victims of the wreck were on the way to medical treatment and at least one life was saved by the use of mobile telephone service.

Decatur Woman To See Grandchild First Time

By ANNIE LOU HARDY

The first glimpse of her small granddaughter is in store for Mrs. J. J. Stephenson Jr. of Decatur, who leaves Wednesday for New York from where she will take off from Idlewild Field on Thursday for Frankfurt, Germany. There she will visit her son and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. Robert W. Marshall and their daughter, Lisa, who was born a year ago in Germany.

Lt. Marshall, a West Point graduate, is company commander of "A" Battery of the 74th Armored Field Artillery Unit. He and Mrs. Marshall, the former Sally Sue Stephenson, have been in Germany for the past three years. Mrs. Stephenson will be away several weeks.

MISS MAY HAVERTY is just back from a trip East during which she attended the installation of Archbishop John O'Hara in Philadelphia at the invitation of the archbishop, who was a close friend of her father, the late J. J. Haverty.

Miss Haverty spent the week end in New York, where she saw Bishop Gerald T. O'Hara sail on Saturday as a papal envoy to Ireland.

MRS. ROBERT V. ROPER has just received word that her son, Tom, who is with the U. S. Air Force at Shaftsbury, England, has been elevated to the rank of captain. Capt. and Mrs. Roper are living at Birdbush Cottage, Donhead, St. Andrews.

AN AUGUSTA VISITOR arriving Tuesday is Mrs. George R. Sibley who will be the guest for the remainder of the week of Mrs. Howell C. Erwin in the Darlington Apartments.

On Wednesday morning Mrs. Erwin will entertain at coffee, inviting to meet her guest a group of friends who attended Lucy Cobb with Mrs. Sibley, nee Margaret Swigert of Augusta. Mrs. Robert Parker and Mrs. James Sartor will also entertain for Mrs. Sibley.

Next Sunday Mrs. Erwin and Mrs. Sibley will motor to Augusta, where the former will be the guest of her grandsons, Howell Cobb and Fred Ware Jr., during the absence of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ware Sr., in New York.

A ROYAL WELCOME awaits Mrs. John Holmes, who arrives Tuesday from Bronxville, N. Y., to visit her mother, Mrs. J. Russell Porter, on Wakefield Dr. for a week. On Wednesday morning at 11:30 Mrs. Fritz Orr will be hostess at a soft drink party at her home on Nancy's Creek Rd. in honor of her sister. A group of Mrs. Holmes' friends have been invited to meet her.

ANOTHER VISITOR arriving Tuesday is Mrs. Joseph Horgan of Maryland, who will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harllee Branch Jr., on Nancy's Creek Rd. During World War II, when Mr. Branch was stationed with the Navy in Washington, D. C., he and Mrs. Branch took a house near Rockville, Md. Their nearest neighbors were Mrs. Horgan inent Washington surgeon, who and the late Dr. Horgan, a prom-lived on their farm, Cragwood, where Mrs. Horgan still resides.

MRS. NEWTON CRAIG and her son, John Newton, born Jan. 10 at Piedmont Hospital, will return Tuesday to their home on Park Lane. Mrs. Craig is the former Miss Sally Hall.

AMONG the 13 Winthrop College seniors who have been elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" is an Atlantan, Miss Eileen Eppelsheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Eppelsheimer. A commerce student, Miss Eppelsheimer is a member of the Johnsonian staff, photography editor of the Tattler, and a member of Beta Alpha at Winthrop.

MARY HAWORTH

Was Son or Stepfather Wrong In Solving Dating Problem?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: During the holidays my husband issued a last-minute invitation to his nephew Bert, 18, to spend a few days with us. Bert arrived next day.

That evening my son and another (local) boy had double-dates, planned some time before. My son did his best to get Bert a date for the evening too, but all the girls he knew already had other commitments. I suggested he might take Bert along anyway; but he said he thought an extra man on a double date would feel "out of place."

Bert was a good sport. He said he knew it was hard to get a last-minute date, and anyway he was tired after his trip and would rather go to bed early. My husband was furious; he said my son had no sense of politeness and should be ashamed to treat a guest that way. Bert tried to defend Jim, but my husband wouldn't listen. Should I have insisted that Jim change his plans? At the time I felt it might be unfair to him and embarrassing to Bert. And perhaps young people understand each other better than we understand them.

Maybe I am making a mountain out of a molehill, but I feel terrible about this incident. My husband (Dave) is my son's stepfather, and I want, more than anything, for them to be friends. I love them both; and perhaps I am too sensitive to any discord between them. What should Jim, or I, have done?

—R. C.

DEAR R. C.: It seems to me that your husband was the arrant offender against good manners in the incident described. His hothead aggression in making a noisy ugly scene about a point of consideration—mutually awkward but inconsequential, to the impartial view—that the youthful principals were trying to handle amicably, suggests that he suffers from chronic hostility towards his stepson.

Hence he furiously treated the momentary difficulty as a classic illustration of an alleged characteristic shortcoming ("no sense of politeness") in Jim. And thus he raged deaf to reason, and deaf to Bert's appeals. It is he, not you, who makes a mountain out of a molehill.

Teen-agers don't know all the answers. Sometimes they are thoughtless and hasty in pursuit of pleasure. They profit by sensible fatherly advice, instruction and rebuke on occasion; and Jim can be no exception to that. However, by his tantrum your husband advertises himself as being psychologically too immature and too insecure to meet Jim's needs of constructive guidance in a kindly, helpful, objective way.

As to what should have been done—in my opinion—Bert and Jim were behaving most tactfully in terms of adolescent values, in treating the last-minute dating impasse as a matter of no consequence, really, since an acceptable girl could not be found for the guest.

Love Is Under Discussion

They were at the kitchen table cracking pecans to be used with chocolate syrup in helping us turn store-bought ice cream into a Sunday dessert. We plyed between the kitchen and the diningroom not paying much attention to them until we realized that the topic under discussion was, ... Love.

Susy, said Jimmy, loved a lad in the seventh grade. A worthless fellow, we gathered, who made "A's" in arithmetic and spelling but was of no earthly use to the baseball team, nor yet the football or basketball teams. Besides that, he was both too old for her and too short.

"I don't care," said Susy, unabashed, "I like him. He's so . . . quiet."

"That's nice in a man," we chimed in, uninvited. "I always liked quiet men myself. What does he look like?"

"Oh, he's handsome!" said Susy enthusiastically.

"Huh, he's a dope," said Jimmy in disgust. "He's got about 15 girls in love with him."

"Yeah, I know," said Susy dreamily. "All the fifth grade and some of the sixth and seventh."

"Well but he likes you, huh, Susy?" we said, getting to the crux of the situation.

"Oh, no-o!" said Susy in surprise. "He doesn't even know me!"

We stirred the gravy and studied Susy critically. What kind of daughter did we have to be wasting her youth in unrequited love?

"That's the way with women," Jimmy explained to us, putting two of the three nuts he had picked out into his mouth. "They only like you if you don't pay any attention to them."

"How do you know?" we inquired. "Have you ever paid any attention to a girl?"

"Yep," said Jimmy, his mouth full. "There's one girl I like. She's a tomboy, I guess you'd call it. And funny-looking. Boy, IS she funny-looking! She's so funny-looking she doesn't expect boys to fall in love with her. She's happy if they let her play baseball. She's got pretty good sense, though. She always laughs at my jokes."

"Well, for goodness' sake!" we cried, spattering the gravy on our shoes in our indignation. "That's the most conceited thing I ever heard of. Just to salve your own ego you like a homely girl who is dumb enough to laugh at your jokes!"

He grinned at us and put two more pecans in his mouth. "Aw, Mama," he protested, "one of the reasons I like her is that she reminds me of you!"

We didn't kill him. We just short-changed him on dessert and made him dry the dinner dishes so his sister, Susy, could have the Sunday funnies all to herself. There are times when women enjoy sticking together.

Barbecue Spareribs

Here's an idea for you, homemakers. An idea for one of the best meals you can prepare. Barbecued spareribs, baked potatoes, a generous mixed green salad, and broiled grapefruit for dessert. It's a simple meal to fix, but it rates tiptop in genuine good eating.

India's Women Are Chattels Of Fathers, Husbands, Sons

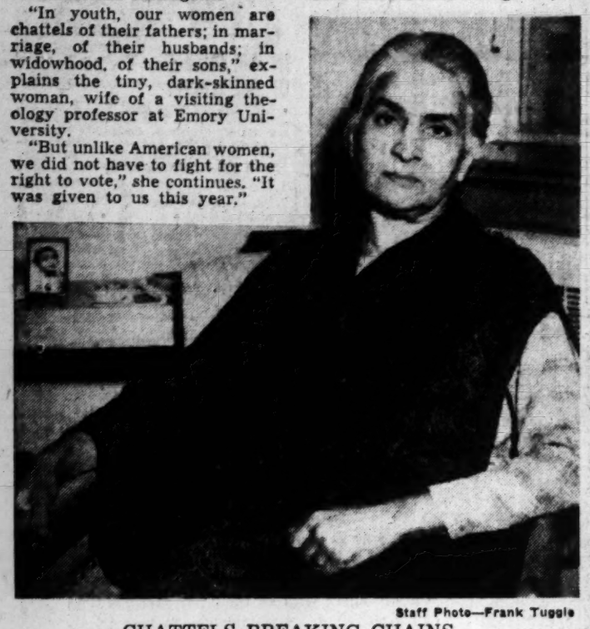

By JEAN ROONEY

Indian women still can't call their souls their own.

So reports Mrs. E. Ahmed-Shah, an East Indian version of the American suffragette.

"In youth, our women are chattels of their fathers; in marriage, of their husbands; in widowhood, of their sons," explains the tiny, dark-skinned woman, wife of a visiting theology professor at Emory University.

"But unlike American women, we did not have to fight for the right to vote," she continues. "It was given to us this year."

Staff Photo—Frank Tuggle

CHATTELS BREAKING CHAINS

Mrs. E. Ahmed-Shah claims

India's first general election since it won independence from Britain is now going on, explains Mrs. Ahmed-Shah, in perfect English with a slight British accent.

"We are not competition for the men yet in voting," she admits, black eyes glowing. "Our women do not have enough education."

But of the few "literate" Indian women, proportionately more are in professions and government posts than in America, Mrs. Ahmed-Shah estimates. She was the second woman in India to enter the governing body of her province, the Panjab, in northwestern India. She now heads the YWCA in her country.

Diamonds are indeed "a girl's best friend" in India, where women cannot own property.

Jewelry, clothes and furniture are their only wealth.

Women leaders are trying to push through the Hindu Code Bill to rectify this.

Divorce rights for women is another crusade of Mrs. Ahmed-Shah. A bill to "free women from husbands for infidelity, adultery, incurable disease and insanity" is before India's general assembly now, according to the Indian visitor.

"Many parents still choose husbands for their daughters," she confirms. "We do not have boys and girls in school together as you do. There is not the same meeting of the sexes."

For proof of women's growing importance in India, Mrs. Ahmed-Shah points to Madame Pandit Nehru, former ambassador to the U. S.; India's Central Minister of Health, Rajmahari Amrit Kaur, and the governor of Panjab province, Mrs. Sarojini Naidu.

Prevent Poor Baking Results

You can get poor baking results if your oven is crowded. When you bake on two racks, see that the dishes are arranged so that one is not directly under the other. There must be room for heat to circulate all around the article you are cooking, especially when it's a pie or a cake. When two pans of food are being baked on one rack, don't let the edges touch, and don't allow them to touch the oven wall.

Cakes should bake near the center of the oven.

Women Here Favor 3-Day Wait To Wed

By YOLANDE GWIN

An unofficial check on Monday disclosed that the pre-marital bill on the docket for the current session of the Georgia General Assembly, is gaining favorable support among the women.

Members of the Georgia Congress, PTA, spearheading the drive for the passage of a three-day waiting period following the date of the application for a marriage license, are being supported by members of approximately 125 organizations in the state.

In town to check on progress of the work in pushing passage of the bill, Mrs. Ralph Hobbs, of Catula, State PTA president said:

"We of the PTA are interested in this three-day waiting period primarily because we are an organization interested in the welfare of children and youth. Naturally, we think the first requirement for a well rounded personality for any child is a stable home life."

QUICKIE MARRIAGES

"When we look at the divorce rate in our nation," she continued, "the number of broken homes, the many mental cases that come from broken homes (and many times broken homes are the result of hasty marriages), we think that any law that would strengthen and stabilize the partnership that would make for secure homes is worthy of our attention and support. Some of our neighboring states have very rigid premarital laws and 'quickie marriages' that can be performed by crossing the border, have put our state in bad repute."

Meanwhile several women—young mothers and members of the PTA—voiced their approval of the pending bill.

"Marriage is a lifetime contract," said Mrs. J. Brittain Pendergrast Jr., "and when you think that many businesses take longer than three days to line up and sign contracts to carry on their work, certainly a marriage contract should have a thorough thinking period. I think as a whole, the law as it now stands is too lax. The bill is a marvelous idea. I am all for its passage."

CARDS ON TABLE

"When a couple wants to get married they may have been planning it for years, but when they apply for their license it's like putting their cards on the table and they see in reality the plans which before have only been a dream," is the way Mrs. Morgan Lewis looked at the situation.

Mrs. John W. Morris Jr. thinks that longer than three days' wait would be a fine idea.

If they are old enough to marry they are old enough to see the saneness in waiting a few days before embarking on such an important journey.

Company Matches Grandma's Silver In New Program

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(INS). One of the big silver companies has started a program designed to help the housewife make the most of that treasured silver handed down by Grandma.

The company has announced that it is making available more than two hundred old patterns in sterling silver flatware. Some of the patterns go back more than a century, but the original dies have been preserved.

A woman who wants to complete a set of heirloom flatware now can take her pieces to any reputable dealer and, if the pattern is one of the two hundred available, the dealer will place her order. The company will get that particular flatware pattern die out of the vaults and reproduce it.

Unidentified knives, forks and spoons can be matched against the company's lists of possible identification. Some of the patterns now being made available are the Colfax, named for one of Georgia Washington's associates, and the Dolly Madison, named for that famous first lady.

Aurelia Smith To Wed Doctor

Mr. and Mrs. Lucian David Smith of Chattahoochee, Fla., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Aurelia Holland Smith, to Dr. Philip Spence, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Spence of Blakely, Ga.

Miss Smith, a graduate of Florida State University, is a member of the faculty of Chattahoochee High School.

Dr. Spence, a graduate of Emory University School of Dentistry, is on the staff of Florida State Hospital. His marriage to Miss Smith will be an event of Feb. 9, taking place in the First Methodist Church of Chattahoochee.

Fourth Estate Newlyweds Have Happy Ending on Fourth St.

A romance that blossomed amid printer's ink of the Fourth Estate culminated in the marriage of Miss Jeannette Bramblett, associate society editor of the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Daily News, to John Alden Senning, a reporter for the Miami Herald, which took place at All Saints' Episcopal Church in Fort Lauderdale. The Rev. Mark T. Carpenter performed the ceremony.

Announcement of the marriage is made by the bride's sister, Mrs. Thomas J. Long of Atlanta. Mr. Senning is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Senning of Tucson, Ariz. The bride formerly lived in Atlanta.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Long, the bride wore a powder blue suit with beaded shoulder motif and a navy blue calotte. She carried a white prayer book topped with orchids.

Mrs. Dell B. Stephens was her sister's matron of honor, and Henry Kinney was best man. Serving as ushers were Arthur Robinson and Duane Jones of Pompano Beach, Fla.

A reception was held in the Coral Sands Hotel Patio. The couple is residing at 1605 N. E. Fourth St., Fort Lauderdale.

Mrs. Senning, daughter of John R. Bramblett of Cumming, was graduated from the University of Georgia and was listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Mr. Senning attended the University of Illinois and was graduated from the University of Arizona. During World War II he served with the Army Air Force.

Hamburger Buying Tips

Homemakers, here are some tips from the experts on buying hamburger. Buy hamburger freshly ground. Or buy chuck, round, flank, plate, brisket, shank, or neck meat and have it specially ground for you. And if the meat is very lean, have the meat dealer add two ounces of suet per pound of ground meat. Then, always store the hamburger lightly covered with waxed paper in the coldest part of the refrigerator and use it up within two days.

Mental Lift To Gymnastics Aids Figure

Imagination is a powerful help in achieving any goal . . . and it applies directly to streamlining. Using mental gymnastics with kinesiology, which is the science of muscular movement, you really can banish the fat that binds muscle. The technique is to picture yourself slimming down as you swing through the movements.

The first movement is an easy stretch. Center the stretch through the middle measurement and think "smooth slimming." Stretch right arm forward, about half way up. As you step back with right leg and stretch l-o-n-g and smooth. By concentrating mentally on a slimmer midriff, you focus the pull through that measurement, toning those muscles. Now lift the left arm half way up, step back with left leg and p-u-l-l-again. This stretch helps you feel so svelte it's easy to picture yourself slimming down. As a starter six stretches are enough.

Now swing for slim hips . . . grab hold of a chair back and swing one leg up in front then backwards, past a 45 degree angle. Think "slim-hips-in-a-hurry," That directs the swing through the big muscle on the back of the hips . . . six swings with each leg will do beautifully. Relax . . .

Origin of Names Of Georgia Towns To Be Discussed

A topic that has puzzled many Georgians as well as out-of-state tourists will provide the subject for an interesting lecture at the Thursday dinner meeting of the Atlanta Writers' Club.

Dr. Edward Dawson of GSCW in Milledgeville will lecture on "The Origin of the Names of Georgia Towns." One of The Writers Club members, Dr. Bert Flanders, professor of English at the Atlanta Division, University of Georgia, will read some almost forgotten poetry of the South.

Violin selections by Edward Pritchett will be the musical feature of the evening.

Mrs. Arthur Codington, club president, will announce plans for the rest of the year.

The affair will begin at 6:45 p. m. in the Atlanta Women's Club.

Your Stars Today

Daily Guide—If you have any little details which need cleaning up, today would lend itself to such work. The emphasis is more on mental work and less on energetic activities. Avoid carelessness in appearances and check on details. There may be a slightly irritating period around the dinner hour, but in the evening it is possible to enjoy the satisfaction of accomplishment. If you feel like patting yourself on the back a little, do so, if at the same time you resolve to continue the good work.

Happy birthday, Capricorn! You could be feeling a little on the snappish side this month, which is not natural to your temperament. Don't let this feeling cause you to take hasty action, otherwise you may have to acknowledge you were wrong at a showdown at the end of the year. The situation calls for tact and diplomacy. As a rule your judgment is good, but right now you may find you are not acting with your usual foresight. Try to keep your thinking clear this year

Tuck in Your Napkin! It's Tea--- Potato-Onion-Citrus-Week!

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD

This is the week of "weeks." It's Idaho Potato week, Onion week, Citrus Winter health week and "Take Tea and See" week. Fortunately, that is a good combination of foods, so if you feel inclined to loyalty to promotions, serve them often.

NUTRITION-WISE THESE COMMON FOODS have much to offer. Potatoes, in the quantities they are usually eaten, make good contributions of vitamin C, thiamin and riboflavin. The daily need for Vitamin C is as well known as the fact that oranges and grapefruit are the richest known source. Florida has plenty of both to translate that good advice into effective health protecion.

LAST FALL AT THE FOOD EDITORS CONFERENCE we had an excellent breakfast of orange griddlecakes served with an orange sauce rather than the usual syrup or honey. Here are the recipes, which incidentally provide a different way to introduce citrus into meals.

ORANGE GRIDDLECAKES

- 1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- ¼ cup milk
- ¾ cup orange juice
- 3 tablespoons melted butter

Sift dry ingredients. Combine egg, milk, orange juice, and butter. Stir into dry ingredients. Bake on hot griddle. Serve with orange sauce. Makes about 18 griddlecakes.

ORANGE SAUCE

- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt in saucepan. Blend juice in gradually, add rind. Cook over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil, stirring constantly. Makes about one cup.

APPARENTLY PEOPLE ARE FOLLOWING the advice of the Tea Bureau to "Take Tea and See" for this hot and hearty beverage consumption is spiraling upward. Many homemakers have switched to tea for the mealtime beverage because it is easy on the budget, easy to make and perfect with any food.

A wonderful tea-mate is moist, tender, cake-like banana muffins. Serve them hot from the oven with some softened cream cheese to spread on them.

BANANA MUFFINS

- 1¾ cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ⅓ cup sugar
- 1 egg, well beaten
- ⅓ cup melted shortening
- 1 cup mashed bananas (2 to 3 bananas)

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and sugar into mixing bowl. Mix together egg, shortening and banana. Add to dry ingredients, mixing only enough to dampen the flour. Turn into well-greased, small muffin tins. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 400 degrees, about 20 minutes or until done. Makes about 16 small muffins.

TIME TO BE ATTENTIVE

She's noted for the flattering correctness of her every costume. The time she spends in her home and her garden is the envy of her friends. Yet she always finds time for her children, too, planning little pleasures for them, sharing their temporary sorrows.

And she'll always have time to be attentive to her family because her husband has appointed the Trust Company of Georgia executor of his will. With the Trust Company assuming the financial and business responsibilities for which she has always depended upon her husband, she can continue to make the children and her home first in her attention.

You will be surprised how inexpensively this can be assured. Why not discuss this with your attorney and us soon?

Drygoods

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—The cotton textile market was quiet Monday. Sales were light and scattered, with prices about unchanged from levels of last Friday. The popular 80 square print cloth sold at 21 cents a yard in first hands and lower for resale cloths. Reflecting the persistent lack of demand for gray goods were reports that one mill will close indefinitely after it has filled its current contracts.

The wool goods market was dull. The Sydney wool market was lower at the start of the new week, following a declining trend in the previous week. This tended to make buyers even more cautious in considering purchases of fall goods.

Rayon goods were sluggish.

Dixie Textile Growth Held Not at New England Cost

Commerce Dept. Survey Shows South Gained by Own Ingenuity

By BILL BORING

The South's undisputed world leadership in textile manufacturing has not been made at the expense of New England, a 10-year survey by the U. S. Department of Commerce reveals.

Results of the survey, released Monday by Merrill C. Lofton, regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce, show that although the South has bumped New England for the textile manufacturing crown in the last 10 years, New England itself has made "vast strides" during the same period.

This disclosure bears out the contention of Southern textile leaders that growth of the industry here has been due largely to local expansion and Southern investments and not to any great exodus from New England.

Southern textile industrialists maintain that only a paltry one per cent of this region's textile growth can be attributed to a relocation of plants from the North.

FEAR PHANTOM RAIDS

New England textilists and state governors, however, are alarmed over what they term "raids on their industry by the South." That section is now undergoing a periodic campaign to stem the phantom raids.

New England, however, has in the past 10 years scored a 113 per cent gain in textile manufacturing output and in salaries and wages paid the section advanced 115 per cent, according to the Department of Commerce survey.

By comparison with Southern gains, New England's are minor, of course. And this is where the New England textile "shoe" is pinching.

10-YEAR DEVELOPMENT

The Department of Commerce survey reveals that the South Atlantic and East South Central states, comprising the entire Southeastern section, increased production by 289 and 295 per cent, respectively, during the 10-year period. They boosted salaries and wages paid by 284 and 271 per cent, respectively.

This section's 10-year textile development, the survey concludes, has thrust it into leadership in the nation. The $2,100,000,000 of textile goods produced in the South Atlantic section in 1950 was by far the largest of any area in the country and the wages and salaries of $1,200,000,000 paid in South Atlantic plants exceeded those of any other region.

In 1939 both the New England and Middle Atlantic areas outstripped the Southeast in textiles. In the New England area in 1939 the output was valued at $575,537,218 and in the Middle Atlantic it was placed at $561,168,402. These totals compared with a valuation of goods in the South Atlantic states of $541,609,856 in 1939.

Bigger Loads For Textile Crews Start

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 14—(UP)—Union and mangement representatives watched with keen interest Monday the effects of an agreement under which some 1,000 CIO woolen workers have increased their work load to help New England mills meet Southern competition.

John Chupka, director of the woolen and worsted division of the Textile Workers Union of America, announced here Sunday that 500 weavers at the Wyandotte Worsted Co. mill in Pittefield followed the lead of Wyandotte workers at Waterville, Maine, in agreeing to operate six instead of the traditional four looms.

The agreement marked the first substantial concession by the union to Northern textile operators' claims that work loads must be increased to meet the competition of lower labor costs in the South.

SIX LOOMS WORKED

The workers had been handling six looms since Dec. 1 on an experimental basis. The plan was made permanent after the company agreed to extend present contracts when they expire March 15.

The industry spokesman who would not allow the use of his name regarded the plan with reserved skepticism. He described the agreement as "a step in the right direction" but said the increase to six looms "isn't enough —that doesn't mean anything."

"If a canyon is 10 feet wide," he said, "there's no point in trying to put a six-foot plank across."

CONTRACTS EXTENDED

Chupka, reported en route from Pittsfield to New York, could not be reached for additional comment. However, Chupka said Sunday that a "number of other" New England mills had agreed to the extension of present contracts. He would not identify them or say whether increased work loads would go into effect at those plants.

The American Woolen Co., wage pacesetter in the industry, announced last week it would not extend its contract with the TWUA. The contract expires March 15. The company indicated it would seek increased work loads to meet both Northern and Southern competition.

HIGHER MINIMUM

Meanwhile, there were these other developments in the New England textile industry Monday:

1. An AFL textile union official asked Northern mill owners and governors to support a higher federal minimum wage for the industry as a means of overcoming Southern competition.

2. The Bates and Pepperell manufacturing companies at Biddeford, Maine notified the TWUA they want to cut pay scales.

3. The A. D. Juilliard & Co., Inc., of Providence, R. I., announced it would renew its contract with the TWUA covering some 1,200 workers at its Atlantic mills.

Cotton Futures Close Lower

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—Cotton futures were lower Monday. Scattered hedging and liquidation met only limited trade demand. Increased hedging reflected the more active pace of selling in the primary spot markets. The restricted trade buying of futures was attributed to the continued slow demand for cotton goods.

A leading spot firm sold 7,000 bales of October contracts against purchases of old crop July futures.

Futures closed $1.75 to $2.10 a bale lower than the previous close.

New Kaisers And Henry J's Shown Here

Kaiser-Frazer dealers are introducing the first of the 1952 Kaiser and Henry J automobiles this month.

Both the "Virginian" in the Kaiser line and the "Vagabond" in the Henry J series are distinguished by new Continental spare tire and wheel carriage.

Luggage capacity is increased by approximately 15 per cent by the new rear styling.

The rear wheel carriage is hinged at the base and fitted with a release lever which allows the entire assembly to be lowered for access to the trunk.

Overall length is increased in both the Henry J and the Virginian models to take care of the rear tire.

New colors and ornaments are features of both cars. The Henry J Vagabond is available in both four and six cylinder models.

Grains Lower At the Close

CHICAGO, Jan. 14—(AP)—The weight of too much wet corn sank grains on the Board of Trade Monday.

With nearly 600 cars of corn on track here, and with warm, damp weather spreading over much of the Middle West corn belt, prices of the yellow grain sank a couple of cents at times. The near-by March delivery was weakest.

Wheat lacked buying from export houses, although some business of this type was expected Wednesday, and eased with corn. Oats, rye and soybeans slipped. The only commodity to show any steadiness was lard, apparently helped by a falling off in hog receipts.

Wheat closed ¾-1½ lower, March $2.57¼. Corn 1½-2½ lower, March $1.88-1.88⅛. Oats 1⅛-1¾ lower, March 92⅞-¾. Rye ½ to 1 cent lower, May $2.11½. Soybeans 1½ lower to ¾ higher, January $3.01¼-¾. Lard 12 cents lower to 3 cents a hundred pounds higher, January $14.60.

Stocks Ease In Last Hour After Rally

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—The Stock Market generated new momentum on the higher side Monday but lost some of its enthusiasm in the last hour. Wavering tendencies appeared in the early afternoon, then were checked only to redevelop near the close so that previous gains ranging from 1 to 2 points resulted in a net increase for the composite rate of only 0.34 point. It was a highly selective session marked by interest in stocks not generally among the most active.

There was no rush to buy stocks and the early additions developed from only moderate bidding. News to affect the cautious trading attitude recently prevalent in financial circles was again lacking.

Some brokers professed to see the forthcoming messages by President Truman dealing with the domestic economy and taxes as the reasons for the continued lack of forcefulness by the professional element in the market. However, the issues surrounding taxes and the budget have been pretty well discussed and little remaining to cause any surprise.

Despite the moderate lift in prices, business on the stock exchange contracted to 1,510,000 shares against 1,760,000 shares on last Friday. Interest broadened, though, to include 1,147 individual issues and, at the close, 463 showed increases, 408 losses with 276 unchanged.

The market has bumped up and down ever since the start of the New Year and at present there is no indication that the range in either direction over the past two weeks will be seriously violated.

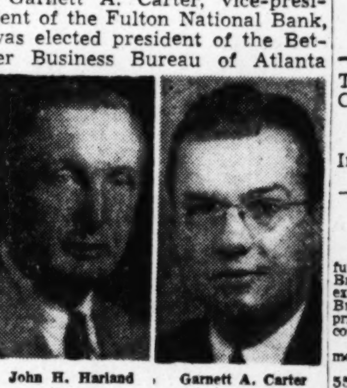

Standard Oil of New Jersey was one of the strong and active spots of the session, advancing 2⅛ points to a close of 79⅝ on a turnover of 14,200 shares. Skelly Oil made a new top of 99¼ on a lift of 2¼ points. Others in the petroleum section moved in a contrary fashion with Cities Service reduced a point while Atlantic Refining rose 1½ points.

New York Central attracted the best attention of the day with transfers of 35,800 shares and a price appreciation of ⅜ point to a rating of 19¾. Changes in both directions among the other main units in the carrier group were fractional. The steels advanced fractions to a point in Bethlehem at 51½. United States Steel added ⅛ point at 39⅞ and Youngstown slipped slightly.

Chrysler was ahead ⅛ point at 69⅝ and General Motors just the opposite at 51½. J. I. Case and American Cyanamid, both with increases of approximately 2 points, featured their respective groups.

Better Business Bureau Elects Garnett A. Carter

Garnett A. Carter, vice-president of the Fulton National Bank, was elected president of the Better Business Bureau of Atlanta

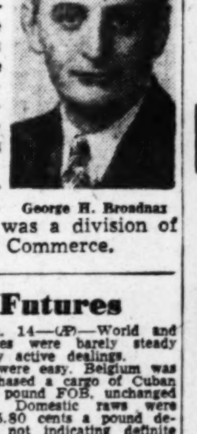

John H. Harland , Garnett A. Carter

Monday at a meeting at the Capital City Club.

Carter succeeds William B. Bell. Other new officers are John H. Harland, vice-president, and George H. Brodnax, secretary-treasurer.

James W. Stephens, manager of the Better Business Bureau, said the bureau began 1952 with 300 members. He said the name was changed officially from the Better Business Bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce to the Better Business Bureau of Atlanta. He explained the bureau no longer was a division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Sugar Futures

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP)—World and domestic sugar futures were barely steady Monday in moderately active dealings.

The raws markets were easy. Belgium was reported to have purchased a cargo of Cuban raws at 4.53 cents a pound FOB, unchanged from the last sale. Domestic raws were available as low as 5.80 cents a pound delivered, with refiners not indicating definite interest.

Demand for refined was slow.

There are 49 Cuban mills now grinding the 1952 sugar crop, Havana advices said.

Tire Official Sees Travel Boom in '52

A vacation-seeking America will break all existing travel records during 1952—and with it will tax the ability of the automobile industry, the oil industry, and the tire industry, to meet the demands for automobiles, gasoline and tires.

L. A. McQueen

L. A. McQueen, vice-president of the General Tire & Rubber Co., made this prediction Monday in opening a two-day sales conference for General distributors at the Ansley Hotel.

More than 150 tire men from General's Atlanta Division heard McQueen forecast the rubber industry's greatest year in 1952—and attribute the outlook to a recent survey which discloses that the leading resorts in the country are now booked solidly for the seasons.

"There will be tremendous travel—and 1952 will be the greatest replacement tire year in our history," McQueen maintained. "We have scheduled our production to produce 14 per cent more units this year than last—and we might have to revise this figure upward before the middle of the year. Travel in the last quarter of 1951 was up 25 per cent over the same period a year ago."

McQueen said his optimism was based partially on the hope that the war in Korea would be brought to a successful conclusion. He said "the people have their greatest savings account on record, but they have been hesitant about spending money for luxuries while our boys are dying in Korea."

CHILDREN SLEEP AWAY THESE CONSTIPATION WORRIES!

Next Day Happy, Ready to Play When Tummy Ache Goes Away

When constipation occasionally upsets little stomachs, children often act up, have tantrums, or sulk because they feel miserable, can't eat or sleep right. That's why wise mothers give Syrup of Black-Draught whenever youngsters are sluggish, suffer gassy digestive upset, sour stomach, or bad breath from constipation. They know its wonderful laxative action can help sweeten such sour stomach, too! Then how a child's disposition improves!

Laxative-Stomach Sweetener Works Overnight!

Syrup of Black-Draught tastes honey-sweet so children take it eagerly. Made of nature's pure vegetable herbs—selected to act thoroughly, but gently. No harsh griping. Given at bedtime, brings comforting relief in morning—thus helps sweeten sour stomach too. Your child virtually sleeps away these constipation worries! Next day youngsters laugh and play! No wonder 17,000,000 bottles have been sold. Get Syrup of Black-Draught from druggists. Works wonders for a child's good nature!

ADULTS For constipation try regular Black-Draught, laxative-stomach sweetener, famous since 1840. Familiar Powder, Granulated or convenient new Tablet form.

New Plan Studied for Egypt Peace

By CLIFTON DANIEL

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

LONDON, Jan. 14 — A revision of the Four-Power proposals to Egypt for a settlement of her treaty dispute with Britain was reliably reported Monday to be under consideration.

After their recent talks in Washington, Prime Minister Churchill and President Truman reaffirmed their belief the Four-Power plan offered the best prospect of relieving the present tension between Britain and Egypt.

The essence af that plan, put forward by Britain, the United States, France and Turkey, was that the British occupation of bases in the Suez Canal should be replaced with a five-power command in which Egypt would be a full and equal partner.

PLAN REJECTED

When that proposition was presented Cairo last October, it was summarily rejected. The Egyptians, instead launched a campaign of boycott and violence to drive the British out of the canal zone.

Since that time the Four Powers, which have stated their intention to establish a Middle East command regardless of Egypt's attitude, have been considering what form the command should take and where it should be established.

AMENDMENT POSSIBLE

They also have re-examined their proposals to Egypt with a view to seeing whether they might in some way be made acceptable to Egyptian opinion or, at least, altered enough to justify the Cairo government in taking a second look at them.

Additional stimulus to the re-examination of the proposals was given by the Washington conversations.

It was stated in the proposals, when they were presented in Cairo, that they were not immutable. The Allied powers are willing to amend them, but only as a basis they consider will meet the minimum requirements of Middle East defense.

Those requiremtnts, broadly speaking, are that a safe, secure and workable base for the Allied defense structure should be maintained on the canal and that control of the base should be in reliable hands.

Sir Amos Ayre Dies in Britain

LONDON, Jan. 14—(AP)—Sir Amos Ayre, chairman of the shipbuilding conference to which all British shipbuilders belong, died at his London home Sunday after a brief illness.

Sir Amos, 66, was a naval architect and a former president of the British Institute of Marine Engineers. He represented Britain at several international shipping conferences and, during World War II, was director of merchant shipbuilding for the Admiralty.

61 in Argentine Jailed At Protest Meeting

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 14—(AP)—Police announced Monday the arrest of 61 persons, including 25 women, charged with trying to hold a meeting to demand better living conditions in violation of a ban on public get-togethers.

Police said those arrested were members of the "board for better social conditions." They said the board was trying to provoke disorders and was "a Communist organization."

Aged Publisher's Oil-Covered Body Found in Ditch

GAFFNEY, S. C., Jan. 14—(AP). The body of Ed DeCamp, 86-year-old publisher missing for 48 hours, was found Wednesday in a ditch behind a Gaffney auto garage.

Coroner Jack Millwood ruled death due to natural causes. Dr. J. C. Hall said DeCamp died of exposure "some time Saturday night."

A block-by-block search of Gaffney was being made when the body was discovered. The heavy-set, white-haired, white-moustached former printer vanished Saturday afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock.

He launched his career as a carrier boy for the Charlotte Observer and later became a printer. Late in 1890 he was a compositor on a composing-room staff that printed the first issue of the State at Columbia.

Three years later he and associates established the Gaffney Ledger as a weekly. Subsequently he acquired all the stock and became the editor. He and another associate in 1900 began Grit and Steel, and DeCamp later became sole owner of that publication.

Rep. Wood's Kin Killed in Crash Off Korea Coast

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(AP)—The Navy has reported the death of Lt. (JG) Joseph Henry Gollner of Salisbury, Md., in an aircraft crash off the coast of Korea.

Gollner was the son-in-law of Rep. John S. Wood (Dem., Ga.). Wood's office told reporters Monday that Gollner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marsh Gollner of Salisbury, and the flier's wife, Mrs. Bobby Gollner, were advised by the Navy of the lieutenant's death.

An aide in Wood's office said word from the Navy indicated Gollner was killed in a crash last week. It said his body had not been recovered. He was attached to the aircraft carrier Essex.

Mrs. Bobby Gollner and their infant son have been living at the Woods' home in Canton, Ga. Rep. Wood went to Canton when word reached him.

$300,000 in Bids Opened By Council Buying Body

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Bids for approximately $300,000 worth of city purchases for the new year were opened Monday by Council's purchasing committee at its first meeting since the body was organized.

Looking toward buying approximately $1,000,000 worth of pipe in 1952, the committee also moved to extend an existing pipe purchase contract with the U. S. Pipe and Foundry Co. The firm already has federal government allocations for the production based on 1951 purchases, it was reported, and the price would be virtually the same.

City Atty. Jack Savage was instructed to prepare the necessary papers for the contract extension.

Water needs predominated the session with bids being opened for $40,000 worth of chemicals, $90,000 in iron pipe fittings, $40,000 worth of new meters, $30,000 worth of valves and copper fittings, and $50,000 worth of valves. They all were referred to Waterworks Manager Paul Weir for tabulation and a recommendation.

Bids on $35,000 worth of fire equipment, mostly for purchase of new hose, were referred to Chief Styron. The chief also announced that the scheduled delivery of the first of five 500-gallon fire pumpers will be delayed until Jan. 29.

Dine at Incinerator

Mayor Hartsfield, members of City Council and civic leaders will have lunch at noon Tuesday with the city's largest garbage heap—the municipal incinerator—in the background. The occasion will be the official dedication of the new $1,300,000 addition to the municipal incinerator, which doubles its capacity. Stafford Graydon, sanitary engineer, and his aides have scrubbed the facilities until it is as "clean as a dining room."

More Police Asked

Police Chief Jenkins will ask Council's police committee Wednesday night to authorize a full complement of officers to aid in policing Atlanta and its newly annexed areas. He says only 133 of the expected 159 Fulton County officers came to the city, under the Plan of Improvement and the division needs the men it did not get. Demand for revocation of the beer and wine sales permit issued to C. S. Cherry at Houston Drop Inn, 357 Houston St., N. E., also will be considered. Cherry's permit at a place on Fair St. was revoked at Council's last meeting after he was charged with being involved in the distribution of poison liquor in which more than 40 Atlantans lost their lives.

The average Englishman is rationed to only about 50 pounds of meat a year.

Remarkable Success Of Rudolph Bing

It took daring on the part of the Metropolitan Opera Association to import Rudolf Bing to rejuvenate that ancient citadel of the arts. It took greater daring on the part of Bing to accept the assignment, formidable from any viewpoint. If he flopped, this would be a crash heard 'round the world, the sort of spectacular nosedive that could put the victim on Social Security for the rest of his life.

Bing was 48 when he arrived. He just celebrated his 50th birthday a few days ago and it should be pointed out that he ate his cake with a great deal of relish, as befits an impressario who has made good.

He made good the hard way, too, because everything but the chandeliers fell on his head, as the result of his early experiment with "Pagliacci." He brought in Max Leavitt to modernize this hoary play-within-a-play. Opera veterans were horrified at the result. About the only thing that remained intact was Pagliacci himself. Everything else was so altered that patrons were shocked to find that the Diamond Horseshoe boxes hadn't been transferred to floor level.

Yet with the exception of that one astonishment, Bing has scored with pretty nearly everything else he's touched. Those who dismissed him as a mountebank after viewing "Pagliacci," now are swinging around to the conviction that Bing packs quite a lot on the ball. They're still cautious about passing final judgment, but you hear the graybeards muttering: "He may even have artistic integrity."

Bing's success has been in his fearlessness and imagination in bringing to the Met, as his important aides, top people of the legitimate theater.

Rolfe Gerard's costuming and lighting of "Don Carlo," "Der Fledermaus," "Aida," "Cosi Fan Tutti," and the forthcoming "Carmen" expressed the shabbiness of the Met stage. Eugene Berman's settings for "Rigoletto" revitalized the opera.

Bing reached out and signed Alfred Lunt to direct "Cosi Fan Tutti," which Lunt did so magnificiently that it became one of the exciting stories of the opera. Margaret Webster's directing touch rejuvenated "Don Carlo." Garson Kanin brought theater excitement to "Der Fledermaus." Tyrone Guthrie of London's Old Vic Co. has done a major reconstruction job on "Carmen."

Once he signs this sort of people, Bing gives them complete authority. "That is most unusual," marveled Alfred Lunt, "and a most delightful way to work."

Grouped around him are an unusual array of personalities, wits, graces and talents. That Bing was astute to reach out for these people is illustrative of his greatest strength. A little man, fearful, would have stayed away from them as though they had the plague. Strong men want strong associates. By getting them, Bing got, in the aggregate, several hundred years of stage experience and a wealth of good taste.

This Rolfe Gerard has the most amazing background of all. Son of an operatic soprano and a physicist, he has majored in medicine, painting and sculpture. During World War II, he performed a tremendous job attending to England's war wounded as a physician on the London City Council.

Bing's success is all the more remarkable because he followed the graceful, urbane Edward Johnson, who had built up many friendships in the 15 years he served at the Met.

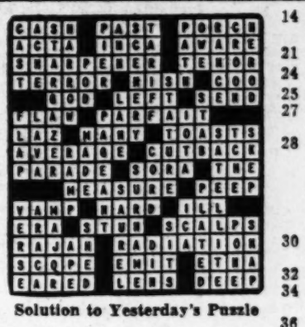

Johnson, a former opera singer, was quiet, reserved, but very competent. Far beyond the realm of competence was Johnson's introduction of young American singers to his company. That required fearlessness, because it cut away from moss-bound tradition. And Johnson founded a vast audience for opera by recognizing the promotional value of sponsored radio broadcasts.

That Bing has fared so well, following a man so well regarded, is a measure of his growth in two seasons. And he has given the Met a shot in the arm, added color and warmth and stage savvy. And he's thrown temperament out of the 39th St. windows.

Dr. BRADY

If It Doesn't Digest, Just Leave It Lay

What ever became of the digestive tablets the Yankee Wiseacres took to keep digestion going in the good old days when a working man could earn a pound of steak in an hour?

Nowadays it seems one just eats whatever one likes and thinks no more about it. If it doesn't digest, the heck with it. Let it lie there.

If there are no old almanacs or doctor books at hand to study, one will worry very little about food that has entered the alimentary canal. If it is entirely indigestible it can do no more harm than the undigested residue of one's everyday food does.

But, you may object if you're a regular wiseacre, suppose something one has eaten disagrees. In that case call the coroner and when he arrives tell him I died laughing at your funny notion.

The notion that some particular food "disagrees" is just a bit of hokum employed by charlatans to keep gullible customers from noticing that they, the charlatans, don't know just what is the matter.

It may be well to mention here, and so anticipate and prevent further confusion of patients by shrewd practitioners, that individuals with a specific allergic sensitivity of some food or food component may react to the tiniest bit of the food or food component with a violent gastrointestinal disturbance.

Speaking of allergy, as I suppose I shouldn't without offering a remedy, I offer not only a palliative but preventive treatment. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlets Relief for Allergy and Calcium Deficiency.

Now, folks, brace yourselves—I'm going into my name-calling routine. You know, such names as knucklehead, wiseacre, dumb — but remember, you wear the cap only it it fits. I have said countless times, and few readers have taken it seriously, that neglect of the teeth and consequent impairment of oral digestion hastens the decline of most people. If you lose a tooth through accident or disease and fail to have it immediately replaced with a functionally efficient denture, you are neglecting your teeth, and it doesn't make any difference how much or how often you brush 'em.

Show me a mature adult who has kept all his or her teeth or dentures in good working order and I'll show you a person with good digestion, good health, good looks, vite and a fine prospect for a long life.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed and addressed to The Constitution.

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Does knowledge insure performance?

Answer: No, write Drs. David G. Ryans and Norman Fredricksen in a symposium on "Educational Measurement." One of the most common mistakes in the field of measuring people's abilities is to assume that someone who knows all the facts and principles involved in a task will therefore be able to perform it. From the standpoint of employing anyone, it is "performance tests" that count. There not only are a lot of people whose fears or repressed resentments will not let them put what they know into practice, but learning and studying can become substitutes for action, especially for someone who has a neurotic fear of failure.

Are "forgetting" and "repression" the same?

Answer: Not quite. What you repress because it is "too painful to think of" is indeed forgotten so completely that you cannot bring it back to mind by any effort of will, and even the fact that someone's name has painful associations (perhaps because it is the same as that of a person you dislike) may make you forget it. But many things are forgotten because they have not enough emotional importance to make you recall them. It is the need to justify feelings of anger or self-pity that makes you "unable to forget" an injury, and it is good psychology to dwell as little on such memories as you can.

17 Solons Ask 'Disclosure' Of Truman-Churchill Talk

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—Seventeen Republican senators demanded Monday a "full disclosure" of President Truman's recent conversations with Prime Minister Churchill of Britain to establish whether there had been any secret "agreement, concord or understanding."

They put in a resolution, of which one of the signers was the Republican Senate floor leader, Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, that if approved would call upon Mr. Truman to supply to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by March 1 all the details of his talks with Mr. Churchill.

This proposal would stipulate that the committee should examine the data and within a month afterward inform the Senate whether anything had gone on between the President and Prime Minister that "could be construed, at any time, to place any obligation, monetary or otherwise, upon the government of the United States."

RESOLUTION DELIVERED

The resolution was sent to the Foreign Relations Committee for its consideration coincident with the appearance there Monday afternoon of Secretary of State Dean Acheson for a long, closed review of the free world's position.

It met an instant lack of enthusiasm from the committee's chairman, Senator Connally (Dem., Texas) and the prospect was that it would wind up as a demonstration not likely to reach a vote on the Senate floor.

Secretary Acheson, for his part, told the committee that the free world's outlook, notwithstanding setbacks here and there, was somewhat better than it had been a year ago.

CONNALLY COMMENTS

Giving this summary of Acheson's report, Senator Connally then added:

"He (the Secretary) warned that a period of danger still lies before us and that our best chances of working through it to an improvement in the situation without incurring tragedy is to continue our present policy of building up the economic, military and spiritual strength of ourselves and our friends in the free world."

As one act intended to build that strength, the committee decided to begin Tuesday closed hearings, and hearings likely to be very brief, on the recent alteration to the North Atlantic treaty permitting Greece and Turkey to become full partners in that Western defensive enterprise.

Acheson, in his foreign policy consultation with the committee, "reviewed" the Truman-Churchill discussions, Senator Connally told reporters.

He added that the published communiques on the subject told the story; and he observed, with a smile, that the Republicans could read.

Thus, in substance, he dismissed the resolution of the 17 Republicans, most of whom are members of what had long been commonly considered the isolationist block of the senate. He indicated, without saying so, that their proposal would languish in the committee.

continent and to grow steadily, will be merged in such a way as to lose its identity."

SHOULDER TO SHOULDER

Despite these reservations, he said Britain stands "shoulder to shoulder" with the United States, the European army and its German elements, "to face whatever aggression may fall upon us."

In flowing Churchillian language, Britain's old warrior surveyed the world and declared:

"What is the scene which unfolds before us tonight?

"It is certainly not what we had hoped to find after all our enemies had surrendered unconditionally and the great world instrument of the United Nations had been set up to make sure that the wars were ended.

"It is certainly not that. Peace does not sit untroubled in her vineyard."

In an indirect reference to atomic energy, Churchill said science stands ready to pour into the hands of all people "new and boundless wealth."

WARD OFF WORLD WAR

None realize this better than Canadians, he said, and this knowledge "must be used for exertions to ward off from us the dangers and the unimaginable horrors of another world war."

In telling of Britain's new financial crisis, the British leader said his country does "not want to live on our friends and relations." The British will bend every effort, he declared, "to earn our own living and pay our own way."

"We gave all our strength to the last ounce during the war and we are resolved to conquer our problems now that it is over. The ordeal which lies before us will be hard and will not be short.

"We shall not shrink from any measures necessary to restore confidence and maintain solvency, however unpopular these measures may be."

BRITAIN'S ECONOMY

During the 10 weeks he has been prime minister, Churchill said, he has had barely time to learn the full facts of Britain's economic position. He added:

"But what we saw at first sight convinced us of its gravity."

Churchill's speech came as responsible informants disclosed the British leader has decided to make another effort in Washington to block American plans to get an American admiral named overall commander of Atlantic Pact naval forces.

He is to leave by Royal Canadian Airforce plane Tuesday morning to return to Washington. His main purpose is to speak before a joint session of Congress Thursday.

Lighthouse Keepers Await Yule Dinner

CASTLETOWN, Ireland, Jan. 14—(AP)—Christmas dinner is mighty late this year for the three-man crew of Bull Rock lighthouse off the Kerry coast.

It's still aboard the Irish Government Ship Valonia moored in Castletown Harbor—and likely to stay there until heavy seas lashing the lighthouse go down a bit.

The three have been marooned on Bull Rock 46 days and there still is no sign of calmer seas. They are in radio contact with the mainland and say food and fuel are holding out but cigarettes are short.

Mrs. Robertson Honored For Red Feather Work

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Mrs. William M. Robertson, who thought, talked and dreamed about the Community Chest drive for seven months last year, has been named Atlanta's Woman of the Year in Civic Service for 1951.

Mrs. Robertson was chairman of the Women's Division of the Community Chest which raised more than $83,000—the largest amount ever raised by that division.

She attended at least 100 Chest meetings. She helped train some 2,000 volunteers who worked under her leadership.

"Without them," she modestly insists, "I couldnot have done the job . . . They deserve as much credit as I do."

The WOTY civic service committee which selected Mrs. Robertson called the chairmanship of the division "the most important single civic activity open to women."

WIDESPREAD ACTIVITIES

Although she concentrated on the Community Chest campaign during her period of service, her record of civic work is long and varied.

She has been active in PTA work, first at the R. L. Hope School and later at North Fulton High School were her two sons were enrolled at the time. She served as PTA president at North Fulton and helped inaugurate a physical education program for girls.

She worked with the Buckhead Civitan Club in establishing one of the first youth centers in Georgia.

A member of the board of the Flower Study Garden Club, she helped organize two other garden clubs. She also served on the board of the Garden Club of Georgia, and has served on various committees of the Atlanta Camellia Show.

AERO CLUB PRESIDENT

Mrs. Robertson was first president of the Women's Aero Club of Atlanta, and she served three years as president of the Women's Chapter, National Aeronautic Association.

She is a member of the Young Matrons Circle of the Tallulah Falls School and the Atlanta League of Women Voters.

Her husband is regional administrator of the Civil Aeronautics Administration. They have two sons, William Jr., an engineer at Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, and John, a student at Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Members of the civic service committee who chose Mrs. Robertson included Harllee Branch Jr., chairman; Jack F. Glenn, Mills B. Lane Jr., Carter Redd, Frank M. Ridley Jr., John A. Sibley and Edward D. Smith Jr.

Mrs. Robertson will be one of five women honored at the WOTY banquet at the Piedmont Driving Club Jan. 23 when THE Woman of the Year will be announced.

Fireworks Fuss Ends in Fireworks

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14—(AP)—Fire Marshal Hugh Stewart said Monday arson charges had been filed against Jack Rawlins, 24, captain of the Oakdale, La., volunteer fire department.

Stewart said Rawlins, a World War II veteran, admitted setting fire to the house of an Oakdale Negro woman because she refused to sell him fireworks. Stewart said the fire occurred Christmas Eve night.

Rawlins has been released under $500 bond.

$75,567 Tax Fraud Alleged In True Bill

A U. S. District Court grand jury Monday indicted A. Foy Boone of Macon on three counts of income-tax evasion amounting to $75,567.17.

The federal grand jury also indicted John Horace Bowen, Mrs. Virginia Price Bowen and Tom G. Jones on charges of filing false information with the Collector of Internal Revenue claiming that Jones is the sole owner of the Memorial Drive Liquor Store at 859 Memorial Dr., S. E.

$273,000 ESTIMATED

U. S. Attorney J. Ellis Mundy estimated that back taxes and penalties would bring total claims of about $273,000 against Boone. He said Boone received his income from widespread "operations" in more than one field.

Boone is vice-president of the Bibb Transit Company, operator of Macon's street transportation system. He also has other extensive interests.

The indictment covered income for 1945, 1946 and 1947. It charged that in 1945 Boone reported he earned $22,957 and owed $8,730 in taxes whereas he actually earned $64,747 and owed $37,914 in taxes.

FIGURES SET FORTH

It charged that for 1946 Boone reported income at $95,791 and taxes at $45,385 when the figures should have been $108,439 and $50,618, and for 1947 he returned income $6,053 and taxes of $1,058 against actual figures of $72,551 and $41,208.

The indictment against Bowen, who is charged with owing back federal income taxes totalling $466,000, alleged that Bowen offered Cecil Hester, an Atlanta bank executive, $2,500 for securing a loan for Bowen to repurchase the store.

Hester, vice-president in charge of the Mitchell Street branch of the Citizens and Southern Bank, said Bowen paid him $2,500 for arranging a $60,000 loan from Lee Myers, Atlanta liquor store operator. He emphasized the loan was a personal transaction and had no connection whatsoever with the bank.

In World War II, Army and Air Force total casualties amounted to 9 per cent of a total mobilization of 10,400,000.

ACCIDENTS

Lad Leaps From Burns To Scalds

A two-year-old Atlanta boy Monday learned the hard way that every action has a reaction.

William Leon Scollon of 690 Memorial Dr., S. E., was taken to Grady Hospital after he backed too close to a heater in his home, burning his legs. As he jumped away from the heater, he overturned a cup of hot coffee and scalded his right arm.

The accident was one of several reported at the hospital.

Struck by a car at Capitol Square and Washington St., S. W., Frank H. Ellington, 38, of 138 Currier St., N. E., a painter, was treated at Grady for injuries to the left ankle and left arm.

Larry B. Rice, 13, of Route 4, Atlanta, hit by a truck at Fairburn and Ben Hill Rds., was treated for an injury to the right leg. Martha Louise Wilkerson, 6, of 583 Central Ave., was treated for a bruised arm after being struck by a bicycle.

A fall from a moving automobile on Mitchell St., S. W., sent Charles V. Largin, 20, of 917 Ridge Ave., S. E., a plumber, to Grady with injuries to the left side and arm. James E. Armstrong, 30, of 609 Bell Ave., Decatur, was slightly injured in a motorcycle accident in the front yard of his home.

Charles Nestlehutt, 12, of Route 1, College Park, was treated for an injury to the left arm after a fall from a pony, hospital attendants said. Accidentally struck with a toy telephone, Sharon Ann Otwell, 2, of 1733 South Pryor Cir., S. W., had a head laceration. One-year-old Sharon Johnson of 877 Washington St., S. W., was burned on the left arm by a heater. Rufus L. Moore, 32, of 2639 Peyton St., N. W., city equipment operator, was struck on the head by a section of cable that broke while Moore was attempting to hoist the body of a truck. He was not injured seriously.

Police Block Bet of Atlanta Youth Making 1,400-Mile Hitch-Hike Bid

An attempted 1,400-mile hitch-hike trek begun on a bet fizzled dismally for three Atlanta teen-age boys, according to Sgt. Charlie Blackwell of the Atlanta police missing persons bureau.

The ill-starred trip started last Tuesday, Blackwell said, when Bobby Worth, 17, of 1435 Richland Rd., N. E., bet a friend $2 against $20 that Worth could hitch-hike from Atlanta to Dallas, Texas, a 700-mile distance, and return. Ed Hall, 15, of 981 Sells Ave., S. W., and Robert Jones, 17, of 888 Allene Ave., S. W., decided to accompany Worth.

With $1.35 between them, the boys started out. Their families filed missing persons reports. Jones abandoned the venture last Thursday at Birmingham, and came home. Worth and Hall were detained Monday by police at Meridian, Miss.

City Groups Hailed for Aiding Plan

The co-operation and the hard work of City Council, department heads and employees have popularized the Plan of Improvement and drowned out the voices of would-be critics, Mayor Hartsfield said Monday night.

Hartsfield spoke at a meeting of council's finance committee, at which automobile allowances for 144 officials and employees were set for the new year.

Councilman Ralph Huie, committee chairman, said allowances will total approximately $72,000 for the year.

Huie said the 1952 budget, calling for an outlay of $20,345,013 for the year for general operations of the government, is the "tightest in years, but is a good budget."

Huie's statement came after the committee failed to take any action to bring salaries of city police superior officers and city fire department captains up to the salaries paid their counterparts who were shifted from Fulton County to city payrolls under the plan.

Members of the Fulton delegation in the Legislature are disturbed at the differential in pay. Several of the affected groups are insisting on an equalization, but finance committee members insist that Atlanta cannot pay salaries and provide services to which all citizens of the new Atlanta are entitled under the plan.

Council will be asked to petition the state to provide funds to match the federal government in purchasing Civil Defense equipment. Hartsfield said thus far no such funds are available.

India's Problem Food, Not Reds, Students Claim

Communism has no mass appeal in India, two exchange students told the Social Studies Council at a dinner Monday at Grady High School.

Jones Brahnanand of Moradabah and Isaac Phillips of Agra, exchange students sponsored at Emory by the Foreign Mission Board, discussed "Education in India" and "India as a Foreign Power" for the group of teachers who comprise the council.

The visitors told the group "India's social structure is against Communism. It has appealed to some in big cities, but it has not appealed to our masses and will not, if we can solve our food problem."

Elected to head the council for 1952 were G. L. Hutcheson, Murphy High, president; Miss Marie Kerrison, Grady, vice-president; Miss Myrtle Caldwell, North Fulton, secretary; and Clyde Kimball, West Fulton, treasurer.

MOTHERS TAKE ACTION

setting up traps and flashing badges for personal gain."

WABASH, Ind.—(U.P.)—A hundred mothers organized themselves into a vigilante group of traffic enforcement aides after a six-year-old boy was killed by a hit-and-run motorist. The women patrol the streets and take license numbers of cars driven too fast or recklessly.

Wrong License Plate Traps Escaped Convict

An escaped Cobb County convict was back in prison Monday because he was caught driving a car with an incorrect license plate.

Fred Carver, 30, who fled from Cobb Public Works Camp last July, was arrested by police as they made a routine check.

Investigating a large sedan on Moreland Ave., S. E., with a license plate bearing markings used for much smaller cars, police learned the driver was Carver. His record showed he had been arrested for larceny, burglary and disturbing public worship.

Liquor Cache Found Where Prowler Lurks

A prowler complaint at 264 Decatur St., S. E., led Detectives Pinson Hammond and R. H. Brown to discovery of a hidden cache of illicit liquor, the officers said.

Detectives said a Negro man, Virgil Harris, was busy removing bricks from a basement window when they arrived. When the bricks were cleared away, detectives found a cache containing 80 gallons of whisky.

Harris appeared in Recorder's Court Monday and was fined $28 on charges of disorderly conduct-prowling.

Capacity Crowd Sees Barter Play

Shakespeare's immortal "The Merchant of Venice" was presented beforé a capacity audience Monday night at Bass High School auditorium by the Barter Theatre of Virginia.

Leading roles were enacted by Woodrow Romoff as "Shylock;" Clayton Corzatte as "Bassanio" and Patricia O'Connell as "Portia." The play was presented by a traveling company of the 19-year-old theatre organization.

Mineral Exports Cited

GOA, Portuguese India—(AP)—Japan received 95 per cent of Goa's iron ore exports in the first six months of 1951, export officials announced.

Total exports of iron ore and manganese ore were 61,000 tons. In 1950, iron ore comprised 75 per cent of the total for the two ores.
